

GULF HURRICANE'S HAVOC IS GREAT

Later Details Reveal Awful Ruin Spread Over Wide Territory

PENSACOLA, STRICKEN BY DESOLATION, WILL RE- QUIRE MANY MONTHS TO RECUPERATE—GOVERN- MENT FORTS, LIFE SAVING AND QUARANTINE STA- TIONS DESTROYED—MUCH SHIPPING IN RUINS.

PENSACOLA, Sept. 29.—At-ready the list of dead from Thursday's storm has grown to twenty-six, and it is known that many more have been lost and others injured, while more than 2000 persons are homeless. For two days rescuing parties have been working to bring conditions to some degree of order, but their efforts have not shown to any extent and there are many bodies yet underneath masses of wreckage.

Ten Miles of Ruins.

For ten miles east and west of the city are strewn the wrecks of homes and vessels of all classes. Commencing at Fort McRae, on a point overlooking the gulf, and continuing to Escambia bridge, east of the city, there is nothing but devastation, ruin and desolation.
At Fort McRae five lives were lost.
The twenty men there had a terrible experience. They sought the batteries, the very highest point, as the waves began to dash over them and lashed themselves to the guns. There they clung for more than twelve hours. Only one woman and her little child was at the post. She was the wife of Sergeant Prentice, and although the big strong soldier fought to save the lives of his young wife and baby, they were almost wrecked from his arms. Three artillerymen were lost by being washed out from the batteries. The fort was almost razed.

At Fort Pickens.

Across on Santa Rosa island is Fort Pickens, where more than 6100 men were stationed. There was no loss of life, but great destruction of property.
The mortar batteries were driven in and the guns were wrecked. The barracks were demolished, Fort Barrancas was badly damaged.

Navy Yard Damaged.

The navy yard suffered probably to the extent of $1,000,000. Many of the new buildings have been damaged or destroyed completely. The floating dock crushed against a stone one, the latter damaged and the gunboats Vixen, Ish-de Luzon, Gloucester, Machias and Waip, as well as the naval tugs Vanhan and Assomae, and a number of smaller tugs and launches, complete wrecks. One of these vessels have been driven in shore for more than 200 yards. The homes of the workmen at Warrington and Woolsey were wiped out and three lives were lost.

At the Life Station.

Across the bay, at the United States life saving station, directly on the Gulf beach, there is not a board to mark the spot where the station house and wharves once were. The men remained at their posts until everything was carried away and then with their families, launched a lifeboat and were later picked up by the army steamer Fox.

Further down the Island the United States main quarantine station has disappeared, except one house. Sev- eral vessels detained there are dam- aged. Customs Inspector Bailey, sta- tioned there, saved the lives of eight of the attaches by swimming with a line across a channel to the rooming house, and the men were enabled to reach that point. The hospital there collapsed. Five inmates perished.

Camping Party's Experience.

Further down the island was camped a pleasure party. Among these was the sheriff of this county. They fought desperately to save themselves and were rescued nearly dead. Two had perished.

At Escambia a trawler a mile in length contained the cottage of the keeper of the drawbridge. This was carried away and his wife and two little children drowned. He and his assistants were washed upon the beach five miles distant from the city.

Vessels in Front Yards.

Across in the city here it will be fully three months before the vessels can be dug out from their positions.
Of the twenty-two ships and barks of foreign flags anchored in the harbor only one remains and it is badly damaged. Some of the immense ocean ships of 200 tons are resting in front yards; others have been driven through houses; some have their masts pointed into stores while others keeled over on their sides in the bay or piled up in masses of wreckage. Only four lightboats out of a fleet of about twenty remain.

About thirty fishing schooners of 60 ton or seventy-five tons were moored alongside wharves and two remain in- tact. Some of the schooners are half a mile in shore. The immense wharves along the water front are cleared of their shipping and are resting in front yards; the Louisville and Nashville, the third going down with about fifty cars and an engine.

Damage in the City.

For one mile west of the city were the small cottages of fishermen, all close to the beach. These have been wiped out. Three persons are known to be dead there. All of the business houses were unroofed by the storm and the water stood in some of them a foot deep. Stocks were ruined and what food was not spoiled was badly damaged.

The hurricane regions for a radius of 100 miles from the city are completely devastated.
The ocean going tug Astral from Pensacola for New York, with 1500 passengers, was wrecked.

and Oil large No. 90 in tow, was caught in the hurricane when 225 miles northwest of Tortugas. The hawser parted and the barge with all the men on board is either sunk in the gulf or is floating about sailing assistance.
The tug put in here tonight for repairs and assistance.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29.—

- Six persons drowned, eight good-
- sized sailing vessels wrecked,
- about thirty smaller vessels sunk
- or ashore and property damage of
- more than one million dollars, are
- the results of the disaster that
- became known today when ship-
- cat and turn islands were heard
- from. They had been completely
- submerged, according to the re-
- ports of tugs sent out from the
- main land to the islands to in• vestigate.

All the loss of life and the greater part of the wreckage occurred at the eastern end of the sound, about fifty miles away from Mobile.

Drownings and Escapes.

The worst catastrophe was at Horn island, where Lightkeeper Johnson, with his wife and daughter, were swept into the gulf with their lighthouse and drowned.

One negro was drowned when the schooner Daisy of New Orleans went ashore on Horn island.

During the storm, two bodies were seen floating in Pensacola bay, but were not recovered.
Pensacola lighthouse was partly demolished. The assistant keeper, J.
Pervante, saved his wife and two small children at the height of the storm by lowering them in a launch with ropes. He then climbed safely into the launch San Francisco. The head keeper was rescued in the open bay, where he was drifting in a small boat without oars.

Some of the Losses.

The federal quarantine station at Ship island was badly crippled. The isolation hospital and Dr. Moore's residence being the only buildings on the island to escape damage. Three men were in the Klondike building on Ship island, which was demolished, and they were swept out to sea. A shift in the wind came when they were a half mile off shore and swept them safely back to land.

The British bark Baumann, with a cargo of lumber, and the Norwegian bark Annam, with $20,000 worth of lumber, were blown on Horn island and left lying on the beach. Their crews were saved by tugboats which put out from the main land.

Wind Blew Terrifically.

The experience of the American bark Florino, which was wrecked on Cat island, shows the strength of the wind.
When the bark began to drift a tow made fast a line, attempting to tow the Florino into the harbor, but the wrecked then both at its mercy until the tug cast off the line.

On Ship island, four vessels were wrecked, the ship Hercules and the barks Nurnberg, Magdalena and Signa.
New Orleans has had communication by rail with Biloxi all day and no serious damage was done there.

Lumber Mills Destroyed.

Outside of shipping destroyed, the main property loss to the sound cities occurred about Pensacola. Fifteen lumber mills located there reported many of their buildings and machinery razed to the ground. Large quantities of pine timber were virtually destroyed.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Sept. 29.—

Delayed mail from Hattiesburg brings advice this afternoon of great havoc wrought in that section and South Mississippi by the storm. It is estimated that 50 per cent of the yellow pine timber has been destroyed and it is feared many lives have been lost in the woods. All tarponine orchards several million dollars. In Hattiesburg alone the loss is estimated at one million. Gulf Port, Scranton, etc., are reported as in a deplorable state of destruction, but no estimate is given of the damage nor mention made of the number of fatalities.
Information given out by Mobile and Ohio railroad officials estimates the number of dead near Mobile and Port Morgan at seventy. It is said not one of the soldiers escaped from Fort Morgan. Biloxi, Miss., is also reported destroyed.

Information from Mobile confirms the report that Codon, Ala., Port, Ala., and Bayou, La. Bats have been wiped off the map and that but one house, the Julius home, is left standing at Codon.

Among the dead are some of the most prominent people of the coast, including the wife and youngest daughter of State Senator S. McDuff of Washington county; Major D. J.
Stevens, Oliver Werneth, wife and youngest daughter, and H. G. Turner, a leading lumberman.

The entire west shore below Mobile is reported completely devastated.
Twenty-five bodies have been recovered and thirty more were reported as known to have perished. Many bodies of negroes are included in this report and the survivors of the race are terror stricken and helpless.

The whites of the vicinity, as well as many from Mobile, are reported as being heavily armed and patrolling the devastated territory in order to protect the victims and their property and to compel the unfortunates and terrified negroes to assist in the work of salvage.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—

Enormous damage to both life and property was done at several of the army forts and naval stations along the Southeastern Atlantic coast by the recent hurricane.

Major General James F. Wade, commanding the Atlantic division, reported to the war department that six civilians were killed at Fort Morgan, Ala., and one enlisted man is missing.
The damage to the post is estimated at $10,000. The fort was completely inundated. Authority was telegraphed to make such repairs as are necessary in the present emergency.

At Fort Barranca, Fla., three enlisted men are missing. Fort McRae was almost totally destroyed, and other forts suffered severely.

The Santa Rosa life saving station near Pensacola was destroyed and the crew is without money or clothing.
Dr. R. C. White, in charge of the quarantine station at Santa Rosa island, near Pensacola, telegraphed:
"Station swept by flood; all buildings practically destroyed; hospital swept to sea with ten persons. Reported that five have been picked up alive.
Officers and employees, save two, are safe. Floating property lost. Property and all records lost. Details later."

A telegram has been received at the navy department from the commandant of the Pensacola navy yard today, detailing great damage suffered by the government in the storm.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29.—

Damage to the extent of $10,000 at Port St. Phillip, located about sixty miles below here on the Mississippi river, were reported today by incoming steamers. A portion of the levee erected to protect the fort against just such tides is reported to have broken and allowed the magazines to flood. New quarters under process of erection were also reported swept away.

Hattiesburg, Miss., suffered about $300,000 damage from wind and water.
Five buildings were blown down, one of them a large warehouse. The First National Bank was unroofed.

Brookhaven reported that an engine and caboose, the latter carrying a theatrical troupe, ran into a washout on the Mississippi Central railroad near that town. The report said that the engine and tender dropped into the hole made by the washout and that five trainmen were injured, three perhaps fatally.

Reports of the Mississippi reports express apprehension about the rural negro population, saying that their little cabins have been blown down by scores.

The reports thus far received agree that damage to the cotton crop will be the most serious result of the storm in Mississippi. These reports are by no means complete but they are well settled and they agree upon 20 to 25 per cent estimate of the loss.

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 29.—

Via Meridian, Miss.—Business was partially resumed in Mobile today. The city authorities are clearing the streets of the debris as rapidly as possible. The street cars are expected to resume service by Sunday night.

Advices from Mobile state that the only outlet is via the Mobile and Ohio railroad through this city. The first fast train, loaded with baggage, reached here at 4 o'clock this afternoon and men accompanying the train stated that not half has yet been told of the damage, suffering and terror of the storm. The Louisville and Nashville has every engine under water in Mobile. The Southern is reported in almost as bad condition. Public mass meetings are being held in Mobile tonight to organize relief committees for systematic work.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Sept. 29.—

The Great Northern hotel at Gulfport is undamaged, is the statement of J. N.
Dunn, St. Louis traveling man, who left there yesterday afternoon, and reached here this afternoon. He says no lives were lost at that point, but the property damage will run into the millions, the gulf and ship island road being the principal loss. A passenger train on that road is lost in the woods. The great pier was wrecked by some thirty schooners and other vessels being dashed against it. The boats being reduced to kindling wood. The new opera house was destroyed, and hundreds of houses unroofed and otherwise damaged. The town is in darkness.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 29.—

Advices from Mobile today indicate that earlier accounts of the great storm and the havoc wrought were not exaggerated. The complete death list has not been made up because many small towns along the coast have not been heard from, but from what is known it is believed that it will range close to 100. Only four houses are left standing at Alabama Port, while Codon, another coast resort, has been almost wiped out.

Tramcar Bowen of the Bay Shore railroad, who has reached Mobile from a trip along that line, said that if the missing persons did not turn up the number of deaths along the Bay Shore road would reach fifty. He said fifteen bodies had been recovered.

Bell in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—The Democratic state campaign south of the Tehachapi was opened in this city tonight with a street parade and a mass meeting at Simpson auditorium, which was addressed by Theodore A.
Bell, the party's candidate for governor, T. O. Toland, and others.

Secretary Root Came Home.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 29.—The cruiser Columbia with Secretary Root on board, passed in the Virginia Capes at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

PRESIDENT ATE WITH JACKIES

Jackies of Battleship Missouri Were Honored By the Pres- ence of Executive.

GOOD MARKSMANSHIP PLEASED ROOSEVELT

Sharing the Mid-day Meal of the Gallant Sailors the President Declined to Ac- cept Any Special Attention.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Sept. 29.— President Roosevelt visited the North Atlantic fleet off Cape Cod today, and left with enthusiastic praise for the officers and crew of the fleet. The crew of the battleship Missouri, on which the president spent the day, cheered themselves hoarse as he left the ship at 1:30 o'clock, for they had had an honor paid to them which no other crew in the navy had ever received. The president and his guests sat down to dinner with the jackies.

Surprised Officers and Men.

This feature of the trip was a surprise, both to the officers and the men. When the Missouri left the target ground and returned to her anchorage, and the first mess call was sounded on a marine's trumpet, the notes had not ceased echoing throughout the fleet when the president called Admiral Evans to his side and announced that he and his guests would take dinner with the sailors.

The necessary orders were immediately issued and the sailors jumped to their feet in surprise when they saw President Roosevelt walk up the after gun deck and take his place at a table where he and his guests had the same mess that was being served to the sailors at the surrounding tables.

SANTA FE'S STATEMENT

Company's Annual Report Is Made Public.

Net Income Was Over Seven teen Million—Business Shows Increase.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—The annual report of the Atchafalaya and Santa Fe Railroad company for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, was issued today.

The average mileage operated during the year was 843, an increase of 12 miles.

The gross earnings were $78,044,347,
and income from other sources, $1, 346,400; total $79,390,747. The operating expenses, including taxes, rentals and other charges, were $51,035,355.
Deducting fixed charges, including interest on adjustment bonds ($10,022,194), this leaves the net income $17,723,290.

The dividends paid amounted to $9, 736,910. The surplus carried to profit and loss was $8,227,314, giving a surplus to credit of profit and loss on June 30, 1906, of $19,985,482.
The funded debt is $27,933,250. The total mileage owned by the road is 1087. The tons of revenue freight carried one mile increased 1,111,330-443, or 23.49 per cent, and the number of passengers carried one mile increased 190,860,433, or an increase of 3.57 per cent.

On June 30, 1906, the company had in its treasury: Cash, $17,321,750; and securities (estimated cash value) $2-897,920; total $20,219,670.
In spite of the very large additions made to equipment and to facilities of all kinds, the pressure of business has been so great that the lines have been taxed at times beyond their capacity, resulting in some cases in inadequate service, in additional cost in handling traffic and in the loss of some traffic that was offered. Yet, on the whole, the business has been well handled and with but little friction.

The losses at San Francisco were fully covered by insurance.
Free service to the value of $300, 000 was rendered to the destinies and the only cost of this service represents the only cash loss.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—

A report of the state department of labor just issued states that there are now upwards of 8,000,000 wage workers in labor unions, one-fourth of whom are in the United States. Great Britain and Germany have each nearly as many labor unions as the United States, but the countries in which the movement is practically new, Austria, Italy, etc., are now making rapid progress.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—

The body of Adolph Weber, who was hanged at Folsom, Thursday, for murder, was brought to this city today from Sacramento. The remains will be cremated.

No Napkins, Either.

One of the men, observing that there were no napkins on the president's table, rushed to the ward room to procure the necessary table linen.
When he returned the president thanked him, but said he was "dining with the boys today," and would have no privileges which they did not enjoy. The sailors, pleased with the president's action, took a further step until at the conclusion of the dinner, when they sent to the president's table a box of cigars, which had been obtained by subscription from the navy canteen.

President Roosevelt left for Oyster Bay this afternoon, after he had received a long dispatch from Secretary Taft dealing with the situation in Cuba.

The Day's Experiences.

The president arrived at the entrance of Cape Cod bay at about 9 o'clock this morning. Rear Admiral Evans left the flagship Maine shortly afterward and went to the president's yacht, accompanied by Congressman Lovering. At his request, the usual presidential salute of twenty-one guns was omitted.

The moment the presidential party arrived on board the Missouri, the champion of the North Atlantic fleet sailed down to the target grounds. On the way out, the president visited the various parts of the ship, inspecting the turrets, wardrooms, etc.

Watching the Firing.

Firing at the targets, anchored 1,080 yards away, was begun almost immediately. While the six-inch guns were being fired, the president stood behind the gun crew and watched through a strong glass the admirable marksmanship displayed. Every shot found the target, not a miss being recorded. When the ship turned and went back over the course President Roosevelt went to the forward turret, where the big 12-inch guns were being prepared. During the firing of these guns, he did not remain in the turret, the mechanism having been explained to him earlier in the day.

Photographed With Victors.

When the ship returned to her anchorage a newspaper photographer asked the president to pose for a picture, and he immediately gave his consent, on the condition that his picture should be taken with the victorious gun crew.

Before the actual target practice began, in order to show the president the value of team work in training, drills were held from turret and six-inch guns, the maneuvers being the same as in actual firing, except that dummy charges were used, instead of powder. This was followed by target practice at 1,080 yards, with six-inch guns and 12-inch turret guns, the speed of the ship being ten knots and the size of the targets 17 to 21 feet.

UNION PICKETING IS ENJOINED BY COURT

Longshoremen at San Pedro Are Restrained from Interfering With Companies.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—Upon petition of the Banning company, the San Pedro Lumber company, the E. K.
Wood Lumber company, and the Kerckhoff-Cramer Mill and Lumber company, Superior Judge Gibbs today granted a temporary injunction restraining the longshoremen's union from interfering with the petitioners' business on the San Pedro wharves.

Recently, Judge Conroy granted a permanent order restraining the defendant union from any and all acts of interference with the business of the petitioners. The union, comprised at San Pedro, this order attracted more than passing interest, because it prohibited union picketing, whether "peaceful" or with force, as a violation of rights guaranteed by the law.

OFFICERS AT PRESIDIO ORDERED TO CUBA

Twentieth and Twenty-second In- fantry Have Been Made Ready to Start Immediately.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Every officer at the Presidio was on the jump today. Messages began arriving late in the day ordering a number of those stationed here to proceed at once to Cuba. Among them are Captain William C. Wren, Captain L. D.
Caldwell and Major M. W. Ireland.
All the troops about the bay posts and in this section, making up the Twentieth and Twenty-second Infantry have been made ready to start for the scene of action on brief notice.

Republicans of New Mexico.

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Sept. 29.—The Republican territorial convention met here today and spent practically the entire day in settling the contests from various counties. The re-nomination of Delegate W. H. Andrews for congress is regarded as a certainty and it is reliably reported that the convention is favorable to the joint statehood proposal.

Senator Beveridge at Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 29.—United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge spoke to a large crowd at the Auditorium tonight. He reviewed the policies of the Republican party in general and the present administration in particular.

Democrats Condemn Senator Bailey.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 29.—The Times-Heard late this afternoon received a message from Outman to the effect that Senator Bailey's course in acting as attorney for special interests was condemned in a mass meeting of Democrats held this morning.

President Roosevelt Joined Fleet.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., Sept. 29.—The government yacht Mayflower, with President Roosevelt on board, joined the battleships of the North Atlantic squadron this morning and preparations were at once begun for the target practice.

ARMY ORDERED TO PROCEED TO CUBA

Governor Taft's Request For Troops Was Promptly Accorded to #### PROCLAMATION OF PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT WAS WELL RECEIVED BY THE PEOPLE—REBELS WILL LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS—CUBAN FLAG STILL FLOATS OVER THE ISLAND.

HAVANA, Sept. 29.—With far less ostentation than accompanies the accession of a new municipal administration the government of Cuba was formally taken over today by William H. Taft, secretary of war of the United States, who, in a proclamation clothed in a kindly and diplomatic tone, in-cative of the policy he would pursue, declared himself provisional governor of the island.

Promptly at noon, Governor Taft, Assistant Secretary of State Bacon and Captain McCoy, Governor Taft's aide, called officially at the palace and paid their respects to the retiring president.
Ignoring President Palma's message to congress on Friday, in which he wrongfully interpreted the mission of the American mediators, Governor Taft spoke kindly to General Palma, to whom he said the people of Cuba owed an unquestionable debt of gratitude.

Palma Was Relieved.

President Palma's brief reply was devoted entirely to an expression of relief at the opportunity of shifting the burden of guiding the tempestuous republic to the representative of a nation, strong enough to enforce control over it.

The fact that the government had changed from a position of absolute independence to the restraint of a temporary protector, was received by the masses with utter indifference. Most of the excited and thoughtful Cubans, while they feel a certain sensitiveness over the loss of the island's sovereignty are inclined to believe that the United States' protectorate will be brief.

Although it was known Friday, that an American provisional government could not be avoided, and despite the fact that it became a reality today, the last twenty-four hours have been the quietest since the arrival of President Roosevelt's mediators ten days ago.

Taft Was Tacitful.

Governor Taft, with true appreciation of the sensitiveness of the Cuban people, was careful in taking up his new duties and abstained from any act that might have been construed by them as humiliating. His decision not to lower the flag of the republic was taken on his own responsibility, as Friday night he was unable to get in communication with President Roosevelt, because of a defect in the wireless apparatus on the vessel on which the president was proceeding to Provincetown, Mass. He felt certain, however, that President Roosevelt's friendship for Cuba would prompt him to approve this act of courtesy to the broken republic.

Governor Taft's Proclamation.

Governor Taft's proclamation was as follows:
"To the People of Cuba: The failure of congress to act on the irrevocable resignation of the president of the republic of Cuba, or to elect a successor, leaves the country without a government at a time when great disorder prevails and requires the most urgent steps to be taken in the name of the authority of the president of the United States, to restore order and protect life and property in the island of Cuba and the islands and keys adjacent thereto, and for this purpose to establish therein a provisional government."

"The provisional government hereby established will be maintained only long enough to restore order, peace and public confidence, by direction and in the name of the president of the United States, and then to hold such elections as may be necessary to determine upon those persons upon whom the permanent government of the republic should be devolved."

"Insofar as is consistent with the nature of a provisional government, the established under the authority of the United States, this will be a Cuban government, conforming with the constitution of Cuba. The Cuban government will be assisted as usual over the executive departments and provincial and municipal governments, including that of the city of Havana, will continue to be administered as under the Cuban republic; the courts will continue to administer justice and all the laws not in their nature inapplicable by reason of the temporary and emergent character of the government will be in force."

"President Roosevelt has been most anxious to bring about the peace under the constitutional government of Cuba, and he made every endeavor to avoid the present step. Longer delay, however, would be dangerous, in view of the proclamation of the cabinet."
"Until further notice, the heads of all the departments of the central government will report to me for instructions, including General Alexan-dro Rodriguez, in command of the Bural Guards and other regular government forces, and General Carlos Roloff, treasurer of Cuba."

A. B. SMITH FOR TAX COLLECTOR

His Long Training in Mercantile Life Guarantees a Business Administration of the Office.

(Republican Candidate for County Tax Collector.)

When A. B. Smith was nominated for the office of tax collector by the Republican convention he was recognized as a winner and since the convention he has made many new friends by his gentlemanly campaign. There is a strong demand for men of Mr. Smith's business training and capacity for public office and when they can be induced to make the sacrifice it usually involves, the county is the gainer. Mr. Smith is a business man, with the grasp of affairs, the faculty for organization and system and the energy that contribute to the great successes in life of American business men. Mr. Smith will bring to bear his long training in commercial life and will conduct the office upon the most approved modern line. He will give to the duties of the office that close personal attention that has always characterized his business life.

A. B. Smith is so well-known in Fresno county that to the great majority of voters, anything that can be said about him in this sketch will have been already familiar. He has lived in this city for eighteen years and as his duties have taken him in all parts of the county he has as large a personal acquaintance as any man in Fresno. During the whole time that he has lived here he has been in the continuous employ as local and district manager of Wellman, Peck & Co., the well-known wholesale grocery house of San Francisco. During this long period Mr. Smith has the proud record of esteem on the part of his employers and his customers. He confidently refers the voters to any man he has done business with during these eighteen years in this country as to his business methods and his reliability.

When, yielding to the earnest solicitation of his friends, he consented to become a candidate for the office of tax collector, he notified his firm that if his campaign would, in his opinion, prevent him from doing full justice to them, to himself and the party, he would tender his resignation. This he did shortly after his nomination and received the following letter in reply, which is the strongest evidence of the esteem in which he is held by the firm with which he was so long connected:

San Francisco, Aug. 29, 1906.
Office of Wellman, Peck & Co., Wholesale Grocers.
Mr. A. B. Smith.

Dear Sir: I sincerely appreciate your very kind letter of the 28th, and as expressed in our change sheet, we will treasure this letter and the sentiments it contains. We certainly have been successful in being quite harmonious during this period of twenty years, and you have made money for us and have represented us in a high grade gentlemanly manner, which is always so essential for a house desiring to sustain a good reputation.

Now, if there is anything we can do for you any time in the future to command us, it does us a great deal of good to feel that we have thus pleasantly severed a business relationship, which has run so long, and it is a matter of as much regret to us as it can be to you that this has taken place.

Wishing you great success and with best regards, I am yours respectfully, WELLMAN, PECK & CO.,
By W. B. Wellman.

Mr. Smith was born in Northfield, Washington county, Maine, in 1849. He received a liberal education, preparing himself to enter college, but went into mercantile business instead. He has spent 32 years in business life. As a young man he traveled out of Boston for a number of years. He came to California in 1876 and since coming here has lived the greater part of the time in the San Joaquin valley.

Mr. Smith is a large tax payer and one of the substantial citizens of the community. He owns a handsome ten-acre home just outside the city limits. He has taken great pride in his home and has brought the place up to a high state of development. He also owns a peach orchard of 50 acres and this spring intends to put out 40 or 50 acres more in peaches. He also has 40 acres of alfalfa.

Mr. Smith is a member of the City Board of Education, having received one of the largest votes of any candidate at the last city election.

Fraternally Mr. Smith is very prominent, the spirit of brotherhood always upholding strongly to him. A man of excellent address and of broad interests, he enjoys a degree of personal popularity that few men can lay claim to. An indefatigable worker and a man of the highest personal integrity, he enjoys the full confidence of the community and will make a public official of whom the county may be proud.

SALOONS MUST PAY $400 NOW

Hanford Falls Into Line of Tax License

City Trustees Also Declare War on Gambling of All Kinds.

HANFORD, Sept. 29.—Hanford has wheeled into line with the towns that make the saloons pay a fair revenue to the city. The city trustees have raised the saloon license to $400 a year, this being an increase of $120 over the former license. Many other business licenses were raised and licenses imposed on other businesses not heretofore taxed. Other ordinances were passed prohibiting all classes of gambling, the exposure of gambling outfits, and the possession of lottery tickets.

A one-eighth mile dash was run at the fair grounds this forenoon by Josh Barri, horses Ironside and Chris Evans. The former, ridden by the well-known jockey, Matt Hobart, was an easy winner.

Charles Walcott, who is wanted in Paso Robles for forgery, was arrested in this city by Marshal Frederick, having first been spotted by Deputy Sheriff Maitland Morse. When he found his identity was known, Walcott made a clean confession of his crime. Constable Gano of Paso Robles is expected to arrive for his prisoner tonight.

bearers were H. L. Parker, J. O. Kendall, B. W. Moore, B. D. Amworth, David Gamble and M. N. Starr.

Mrs. L. Burrell gave a dinner last evening to the members of the Round Table in honor of Mrs. J. H. Hopkins, who will shortly leave for her new home in Hollywood. The rooms were decorated with ferns and carnations. Mrs. Burrell was assisted in entertaining by Misses Esther Denham, Edith Anderson, June Dodge, Carol Dunlap, Mollie Balthus and Norma Burrell.

MAY CARRY FREIGHT ON ITS STREET CARS

Superior Court Upholds Los Angeles Electric Railway Co. in Important Case.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—Judge Smith of the Superior court today reversed the judgment of the police court in the case of a conductor of the Los Angeles Interurban Railway company, charged with operating a freight car through the city's streets.

It was a test case brought to determine the railroad company's right to operate freight cars over their lines, and has been hard fought by both sides. Judge Smith's decision was in favor of the company.

The city attorney announces that he will appeal to the Supreme court for a final decision as to whether the company is not violating its franchise rights by operating freight cars.

Cycling Across the Continent. SAN DIEGO, Sept. 29.—George W. Breed, a cyclist who has been in the city about three months, left today, accompanied by William Osborn, on a tandem motor cycle trip to Buffalo, N. Y. Breed has already wheeled from Buffalo to the Atlantic seaboard, and makes the present trip in order to completely cover the width of the continent. The route chosen follows the Santa Fe railroad.

Suicided While Crazy. SACRAMENTO, Sept. 29.—Michael Morrison, who was supposed to have been suffering from delirium tremens, early this morning shot and killed himself at Walnut Grove. ## GORDON REPLIES TO HIS CRITICS

In Reference to $2 County Tax Rate.

Fresno's Increase Greater than San Francisco, Notwithstanding Fire.

Editor Republican:—Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to answer certain criticisms made by members of the Fresno Chamber of Commerce and published in the Fresno Democrat some days ago concerning statements made by myself relative to the excessively high tax rate levied in Fresno county for the current year?

First, I want to state that I did not say that Fresno had the highest tax rate of any county in the state, but I did say that the present rate as levied by the Fresno County Supervisors for the year 1906 is the highest in any valley county in Northern California in which the Sacramento bank (with which I am associated) loans money. To prove the truth of my assertions, I will give you the state and county rate for the year 1905, also for 1906, for the following sixteen important counties in Central and Northern California:

County	1905	1906
Alameda	1.80	1.85
Butte	2.00	1.90
Colusa	1.80	1.80
Fresno	1.80	2.00
Glenn	1.05	1.75
Kings	1.75	1.60
Kern	1.60	1.60
Merced	1.85	1.75
Stanislaus	2.00	1.85
San Joaquin	1.05	1.05
Sacramento	2.00	1.95
Sutter	1.55	1.75
San Francisco	1.654	1.728
Sonoma	1.90	1.57
Solano	1.75	1.75
Yolo	1.55	1.55

Thus it will be seen that seven of the above counties have lowered the rate and five remain the same as last year, and not one of the above named counties has as high a state and county tax rate as Fresno. Not only that but San Francisco, which suffered by earthquake and fire last April a financial loss without equal in the annals of history, has not increased its tax rate as much as Fresno county. I could cite several other counties, but the ones named above cover the territory embraced in my statement to your editor.

I am not making a statement of the above facts with any intention of offending anyone, and I sincerely trust that no member of your Chamber of Commerce will attempt to act as censor and prohibit the publication of the above facts. If they should hurt the feelings of any citizen of Fresno, or in any way smirch the fair name of Fresno, it is all the more evident that a remedy is necessary.

There is another little item that deserves passing notice that is probably not universally known to your citizens and that is that Fresno county at the present time is practically out of money, and in consequence thereof, on September 10th, 1906, there were warrants filed with the county treasurer to the amount of $55,800.77 and no money to pay them, and kind Providence only knows how many thousands more will be filed before the November taxes are available.

I spent many of the best years of my life in Fresno county and have seen it change from a barren waste into one of the wealthiest counties in California, and in consequence thereof, have never failed at home or abroad to speak in the highest terms of its present and future possibilities, but when some days ago I learned that your Board of Supervisors had levied for state and county purposes a tax rate of $2 on $100 worth of property, with an increased tax roll over last year of nearly $2,000,000, it nearly took my breath away, and I was constrained to exclaim, "How long, O Lord, how long" will the voters of Fresno county continue to elect men to run its affairs who so grossly mismanage its finances as to make necessary such an exorbitant tax rate on a total assessed valuation of over forty millions of dollars.

But methinks I hear some one say that complaints about the high assessed value of property in Fresno county made by one who has never assessed as a supervisor come in bad grace. In answer to this I can say that while I have never had the honor of filling that important position, it is not due to the fact that I did not make the attempt some years ago, to secure the golden plum, but because I refused to pay three delegates $26 for their roles I failed to get the nomination, but even had I made the above investment and secured the nomination, it might have been doubtful even then whether I was endowed with the necessary qualifications to get possession of the office, enough in which to store, feed and safely guard for thirty days prior to election votes enough to have made my "calling and election sure."

Of course, Mr. Editor, these things are not done in Fresno county, but somewhere down in Tennessee, something like the above has occurred. In all seriousness, and in the interests of the good name of the county I love more than any other in this great state, I beg of its voters, who hold the future destinies of its public officials in their hands, to clean up the official atmosphere and at the election to be held this fall select men for positions of public trust who are known to be honest and in every way qualified to hold such responsible positions. Therefore, I trust, in view of the above facts, that public sentiment in Fresno county will assume proportions at the coming election as formidable as the flow of the river Alphaeus, which, according to Greek mythology, Hercules, by turning it through the Augean stables, cleaned out in one day the filth that had been accumulating for thirty years. Do not be discouraged—try, try again; and in the future may the love of good, honest government prevail over your county management that it will be a pleasure once more for your humble servant to sound his praises in behalf of Fresno county. Yours respectfully, ALEX. GORDON.

LEGISLATIVE TICKET.

In the confusion of a multitude of local candidates, appealing for support on personal grounds, voters should not lose sight of the fact that there is also a legislative ticket in the field, whose election involves much more than personal considerations. It happens that the Republican legislative ticket is an extraordinarily strong one, in its personal quality. Frank H. Short, candidate for Senator, is one of the strongest men in the state, and W. F. Chandler and A. M. Drew are already tried and established leaders in the Assembly. Fresno county has held high rank in the legislature by virtue of the exceptional quality of the men it has sent there, and this is no time to forfeit that rank by sending untried men, and especially untried men who would be further handicapped by affiliation with the minority party. The Republican candidates are the grade of men who would be entitled to preference, even in a personal contest for a local office. For the broader responsibilities of a legislative office, the case for them is unanswerable.

There are also some very practical matters which make it important to us all that the county be strongly represented. The Kearney gift to the state raises the question what shall be done with it. Nothing worth while will be done with it except against the strongest possible political opposition from other sections of the state. The strongest representatives we can get will find the task of looking out for our interests none too easy, and weaker representatives would find it impossible. Periodical agitation for county division also make it important that our delegation should be willing and able to protect the integrity of the county. Only four years ago a law was log-rolled through the legislature to facilitate county division anywhere. Governor Purdie vetoed it. The menace of such action is always present and is now active. The way to guard against it is to put the right men on guard. Matters of irrigation, of forest administration and road building, of taxation and the distribution of school funds all affect us vitally, and make it important that our representatives be in a position to look out for them.

It is absolutely impossible that the next Senate shall be Democratic, and practically out of the question to look for a Democratic assembly. All the hold-over senators but two or three are Republicans. If some tidal wave should make all the new senators Democrats but two or three, that would only just tie the senate; and no result actually possible can of course even approach that limit. The Senate, then, will be Republican, and in that senate only Republican members will have any power. The Assembly, being elected anew every session, could of course be made Democratic by a political tidal wave, but there is no such wave in sight, and no one, even the Democratic candidates, expect a Democratic Assembly. Since the Assembly is to be Republican, anyway, it is to our interest, even from the standpoint of independent or Democratic voters, to have our representatives in it Republicans. From the Republican standpoint, of course the case is still plainer. And if there be any who still imagine these general considerations have nothing to do with it, these will favor Short, and Chandler or Drew, on the mere question of comparative personal ability and merit.

SOCIALISM AND REFORM.

Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," in a recently published personal confession, expresses his surprise at the impression his book made. He wrote it as a socialistic crusade against capitalism, and found it accepted as a sanitary crusade against dirty meat. "In other words, I aimed at the public's heart, and, by accident, I hit it in the stomach."

Mr. Sinclair's phrase is striking, but it misses the point. His experience was in fact, only the common one of all socialistic agitators. They preach revolution and find they have accomplished nothing but reform. They assail all sorts of abuses, as an argument against the existing social system, and they find the public prefers, instead, to reform those abuses within the system. The man who does not believe in the wage system portrays the hardships of the wage-worker, and finds his only result is to help raise wages and lessen those hardships. The exposure of the abuses of capitalism have brought the end of capitalism no nearer, but have merely helped reform those abuses. Any man who can prove that laws are being violated, elections corrupted, goods falsified, or men oppressed, can get a hearing, and his revelations soon lead to reforms. But the man who, with equal brilliancy, preaches that the trouble is not in the abuses, but is fundamental to the system, gets no hearing at all.

These facts will of course not convince the thorough-going socialist that he is wrong. But they ought to convince him that the American people constitute a poor soil for the growth of his doctrine. The American people have a deep and abiding faith in democracy. They know the faults in the system, and are eager to remedy them. But they admire the system as one which can work, even when faultily constructed, and they listen with small patience to descriptions of another system which, however ideal it might be if it worked perfectly (any system would be ideal if worked perfectly) is the one system of all that were ever known or dreamed which could not work at all unless it worked perfectly.

A FINE MUDDLE.

Verily, it is a fine muddle! Hearst nominated for governor of New York by the Independence league, chiefly on his municipal ownership doctrine; straightway repudiated by the very Municipal Ownership league which gave him his first boost, and then nominated by the Democrats on an anti-municipal ownership platform. The same Hearst repudiated by the California Democrats, on the ground that he is a traitor to Bryan, and endorsed by Bryan as his friend. California Democrats, afraid of Hearst, because he is a radical, and then trying to get Hearst votes by putting out a radical platform almost out-Hearsting Hearst. New York Democrats accepting Hearst, because he can get the radical votes, and then putting out an anti-Hearst conservative platform to catch the conservative votes. Langdon, nominated by the California Independence league on an anti-boss, labor-union platform, and then the labor unions appealing, not to the anti-boss organization, but to its absence. New York boss, to take his labor union candidate off his anti-boss ticket, that they might be free to endorse the candidate of Citizens' Alliance McNab, on a capitalistic party ticket. Whatever is proclaimed as Democracy in one end of the country is denounced as anti-Democracy in the other. And in New York Hearst, after having secured his nomination from men who said he was an anarchist, and whom he had denounced as thieves, appeals for the support of Tammany, by telling its members it is not fit to exist, and asks for the vote of up-state Democrats on the ground that he does not believe in their Democratic platform. It is a fine muddle, however you look at it.

"There ought to be a couple of dozen new counties formed in California,"—Hartford Sentinel.

And two dozen more court houses to build, two dozen more acts of officials to pay, two dozen more chances of getting grafters and incompetents, two dozen more elections to hold, two dozen more inconsistent and conflicting tax rates, and two dozen more chaotic road systems. Incidentally, two dozen more opportunities for politicians to milk the public. An argument strong with politicians, but not with the people.

SYNAGOGUE FOR FRESNO

Atonement Day Stirs Up Interest in Movement.

If Fresno Will Raise $5000, San Francisco Will Arrange for $10,000.

Fresno may yet have its own synagogue or place of worship for its people of the Jewish faith. If, among the Jews in this city, the sum of $5000 can be raised somehow, the Hebrews of San Francisco stand ready to come forward with $10,000 more, and with the joint amount a regular synagogue can be established.

This is what Rabbi Meyer May said yesterday, after terminating the annual services, as he implored the members present to do something toward getting a place of worship started in this city. He plausibly showed that, while many towns of much smaller size than the Italian City, and of lesser importance, had their own exclusive spot at which they could gather for their Sabbath worship and other ceremonies of the year, Fresno, with a population of between 20,000 and 30,000 and having a large population of prosperous Jews, had no place of the kind. To encourage the city in the movement, the rabbi made a tentative offer of raising twice the amount that would be required of the Fresno Jews, and regarded $5000 as a mere bagatelle to be divided in cost between the many Hebrews of this place who are in comfortable circumstances, if not actually opulent. He did not seem to think that the absence of a synagogue here was due to any falling off in faith or adherence to the creed by its followers, rather, was attributed to lack of leadership and initiative. With one or two resolute men of executive ability to come forward and do something to stir up interest, others would follow, and it would not be long before a synagogue was fairly established. Of course, much cannot be expected for $15,000 in the way of a big building, but such is not needed. The congregation would be necessarily small, and a small building something similar to the Japanese-Methodist church would be sufficient. Or perhaps some building now in use for some other purpose might be purchased cheaply and fitted out.

Just from what source the additional donation would come was not stated by Rabbi May, but it is presumed that some fund exists in San Francisco from which an appropriation may be made, either in the way of a loan or a gift, for the organization of a house of God for Fresno. At any rate, it is said that several prominent Jews of this place have the idea under serious consideration, and will set up to it when some one comes forward with practical plans for the fruition of the idea.

At sunset last night the annual holiday of the Jews came to an end, and from morning came rejoicing. There were several services during the day, commencing with the Kneels, or confession, and ending with the Schofar or Ram's Horn. The first services were conducted by S. Koplan, who officiated as cantor. In the afternoon H. Koplan officiated. The rabbi conducted the Schofar.

Among the services were the prayers for the exiled, with the opening of the Ark containing the Torah, or five books of Moses, and the Holy Scroll. The Moskin Noshomim services included the first or Schirows service; the second or Mussif, the Mincher and the Kneels. In the latter is the only part of the entire ceremony wherein the worshippers pray on bended knees.

Prof. Warrall sang, in splendid form, several selections from classical music adapted to words from the Jewish psalms, principal among which were: "Prayer from Bieri," by Wagner; "I Sought the Lord," and Stradella's "O Lord, Have Mercy," the latter being worded from the penitential psalms of the Talmud.

The mournful dirges and silent prayers of the worshippers were concluded by the brightest feature of the ceremonies, the Schofar, or sounding of the Ram's Horn by the rabbi. This signals the close of the day and announces that the Atonement is at an end for another year.

After the services were over, all present repaired to their homes, where they brought their fast to an end with feasting, and finished the night by resuming their suspended avocations. Stores were opened, all was once more activity, and the men who had pored over their Talmuds in the yearly abasement before the Master in atonement for the past were again the men of the world.

INSURGENTS KILL MARINES

Extraordinary Statements By a Virginia Paper

Reported Wireless Message Containing News of Affair Was Received.

NORFOLK, Sept. 29.—The Virginian Pilot tomorrow morning will say: From a reliable source it is learned that a wireless message was received at the Norfolk navy yard late yesterday afternoon, stating that twenty-five marines and a marine sergeant were killed yesterday in Cuba by the insurgents. It is said that the insurgents had sought to prevent the landing of several hundred marines on Cuban soil.

The first message, received at the navy yard wireless station, according to the information, stated that twenty-six marines had been killed. This was followed by a second message giving more definite information.

Attempts to verify the report of the wireless message were not successful, but the Virginian Pilot's source of information is regarded as reliable.

New Human Officers, Charles Bodley of Kingsburg and R. S. Barker, deputy consuls of consulars, were yesterday made regular officers of the Human Society by Judge Aus.

LONG SEARCH IS REWARDED

Family United After Many Months Wandering.

Sister Gets News of Brother Separated from Her in San Francisco.

Separated from her brother in the San Francisco fire and worried and worn out with a fruitless search ever since, Mrs. G. W. Smutz of Corning, arrived in town yesterday to make inquiries in this direction and located her brother by finding an advertisement in one of the papers of the Republican's exchange list.

Her story is one of the many that others can tell of the sorrows and misfortunes that befall so many in that disaster. It was like this, she said: "My brother, Fred B. Lee, with his wife and four children came from Eureka to join myself and husband with our two children on the 17th in San Francisco. We were to go East the following day to Palmer, Kansas, and had put up at the St. Francis for the night. The earthquake did not harm us, although we were greatly frightened. Of course we could not get over to Oakland next morning and most of the day was spent in watching the fires that had sprung up all over city.

Towards afternoon we found ourselves near the city hall with the fire near by. We little realized the nearness, and, when part of a burning building suddenly fell before us, my brother's wife and children, who were standing some little distance away, were completely buried in the debris. Those who were not killed immediately died before we could render any assistance, and one child was missing. My brother thought it might have been beyond the falling wall and had escaped, and it was while searching for this child that a new fire started between us and we were separated.

"From that time on I have not seen or heard of him, but I felt that he was alive, and after searching all the camps and hospitals in the city, I started on my search. I hunted all around the bay, then up to Santa Rosa, Potlume, Sacramento, Stockton and then Fresno.

"Here a lady informed me that she thought she had seen an advertisement about me in a Santa Barbara paper, but I looked all through that and could not find it. Then she said it might have been the Stockton paper and sure enough there it was, announcing that he was in Sacramento. Oh, I am so thankful. He is my only brother. Yes, my husband and children are with me. We shall leave tonight for Sacramento, where, according to this advertisement my brother is awaiting news of me."

COLLISION ON PENNSYLVANIA

Fast Express Crashed Into a Standing Train.

Two Women Killed and Twenty-nine Persons Injured—Carelessness Charged.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—Two persons were killed and several more hurt and twenty-nine were injured in a rear end collision of passenger trains on the New York division of the Pennsylvania railroad at Edgington, Pa., seventeen miles north of this city, shortly after 9 o'clock today.

It is said by passengers that the Long Branch express, bound for Philadelphia, had stopped to cool a hot journal. While the train crew were at work on the journal the express train which left New York at 7:30 a. m. thundered around a curve and crashed into the Long Branch train. It is declared that the express from New York disregarded signals and thus caused the accident. Those killed and most of the injured were in a Pullman car on the rear of the Long Branch train. It was cut in two as with a knife and the impact smashed the two coaches ahead of it.

Because of the lack of facilities, it was some time before the work of rescue began. A train was quickly made up and most of the injured were brought to this city, though some were sent to Bristol and Trenton and others were cared for in neighboring farm houses. The dead were extricated from the mass of wreckage and stretched out alongside the track. Two hours later a northbound passenger train was stopped at the scene of the wreck and the bodies of the dead were sent to a morgue at Bristol, Pa., seven miles from Edgington.

H. Heppner of Gloucester, N. J., was a passenger on the first train with his wife and two sons. "It was simply murder, that's what it was," exclaimed Heppner. "I saw the whole thing. We were all on the first train, the one that was struck, and it had been standing on the track for about thirty-five minutes. There was a sliding near, but they did not put us on that."

"About a square behind us was the signal-lantern near a curve. I got out of the car to light a cigar and stretch myself and I noticed that the danger signal was up, but the tower is at a curve. Even if the engineer of the train did see it, as he doubtless did, he did not have time to stop. A stop of the hundred yards up the track beyond the curve everything would have been all right. The express train then would have had plenty of time to stop before doing any damage."

"When the second train came spinning around the curve I saw it coming, but did not think it was on the same track as ours. Then I saw that the engineer had put his brakes on hard, but it was no use. In a few seconds the train crashed into the rear end of the one standing, following the cars."

"The confusion was something terrible. Everybody was screaming and trying to get out of the cars on both trains. I rushed in the assistance of my family and got them out safely."

"Two dead people and seven injured

High pressure, with cloudy warm weather, prevails along the Atlantic slope. The great storm that devastated the Gulf coast has moved northward and gradually diminished to a moderate disturbance, with its center overlying the middle Mississippi and Ohio valleys. It has caused moderate rains over the East Gulf coast, the middle Mississippi and Ohio valleys, and the lower lake region, with over 200 inches at St. Louis and 175 inches at Chicago. Moderately high wind is blowing over Lake Erie. A crest of high barometric pressure is moving eastward over the region between the Rocky mountains and the upper Mississippi valley, with its center over North Dakota and Manitoba, accompanied by fair, cool weather, with heavy frost at Bismarck. Dense fog prevails along the Pacific coast and the pressure conditions indicate fair weather at Fresno and vicinity Sunday.

TWENTY DAYS IN JAIL. ENDS HIS HONEYMOON

Tempestuous Wedding Tour of Charles Emerson Has Disastrous Sequel.

Charles Emerson of the Dean Law and Collection Agency is spending twenty days in the county jail as the sequel to a tempestuous honeymoon. Married two weeks ago to a woman to whom he was evidently not adapted temperamentally, he engaged in combat with her during the entire two weeks of their wedded life. The couple arrived here on Friday morning and before midnight contrived to get chased out of four or five hotels because of their strenuous quarreling and noisiness. Their quarreling was ended by the departure of the woman for Oakland and the subsequent arrest of the bridegroom on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Yesterday, before Judge Briggs, Emerson, who was well supplied with money, pleaded guilty, expecting to see the end of the matter put up with a minimum fine. Judge Briggs gave him twenty days straight, despite his explanations, and the fellow was marched off to jail.

Barstow's Fire Damage.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29.—The fire which last night destroyed most of the small town of Barstow was extinguished on an early hour this morning. The total loss is about $50,000, with but little insurance. The principal loss was to business houses. The Santa Fe officials here say that the company's losses in the fire were small, the depot and other buildings being saved.

BETTER GOODS

Where Quality Combined With The Lowest Prices Everlastingly Prevail

Those who are patrons of this store are all assured that these facts are true and those who are not are always ready to convince of the many reasons why we should have your trade. Two principal ones we are stating.

Reason No. 1, Best Goods Lowest Prices

Of interest to every economical shopper is the price you pay for WORTHY merchandise. Bear in mind this word WORTHY when you find goods priced less than ours, then look to the quality. It is our aim to sell the BEST the market affords at the lowest possible prices, consistent with good merchandising. This is not advertising talk as some will no doubt say, but the actual principals on which this store is conducted. We endeavor to make our advertisements truthful, plain statements of store news that will be of interest to everyone. Hence our growth and popularity.

Reason No. 2, Our Gold Discount Stamps

This plain statement may convey little to those who are not familiar with our Gold Discount Stamps and have not visited our premium display. Here you will find none of the usual junk generally given as premiums to those who have conscientiously saved discount stamps only to get some inferior premium that was only a disappointment. Visit our display rooms on the second floor. It is not necessary that you be a purchaser. Come in, you will be treated with the same consideration and courtesies as any customer.

HATCHERY IS NEEDED

Too Much Fishing in Mountain Streams.

Game Warden Cobb Makes Quarterly Report on Game Conditions.

County Game Warden Cobb yesterday filed with the clerk of the board of supervisors a report covering his activities for the months of July, August and September. It is as follows: "To the Honorable Board of Supervisors, Fresno County, California: Gentlemen—I herewith make my quarterly report for the period ending Sept. 30th. During the said quarter I have been over the greater part of the county, and I find the fish and game in very good condition. During said quarter I have been through the mountains pretty well. I find the fishing very good in places, but as a general thing very scarce on account of the great demand there is for them up there.

"Under the present conditions, the fish cannot be benefited very much in that part of the country until a hatchery is located there, so that we can stock those streams every year.

"Here in the valley I find the fish being wasted very bad in parts of the county on account of the water being shut out of the ditches, these not being secured. During the high water this spring we have had a line run of black bass up the rivers. I will say I am very thankful to the members of the Shaver Lake Fishing club for the interest they have taken in the fishing industry. With their assistance, I am glad to report there have been, during the quarter, 120,000 trout received for stocking purposes in this county. There were put in Shaver lake 80,000 Rainbow and Loch Leven trout, and in the waters around Millwood and Paradise valley 40,000 Rainbow and Eastern brook trout.

"As for game, I find the deer very scarce. But there has been a fine hatch of grouse and mountain quail, and also valley quail, as for the ducks, I find that they have done well also.

"Now, as for the arrests and convictions. There have been seven arrests made, six for dynamiting fish and one for killing doves out of season. One case that had been pending in court was decided—that of Abraham Pretzer for killing doves out of season. His case came up in Justice Beall's court at Clovis and he was found guilty and paid a fine of $25. The other case was that of a Chinaman named Wing Hop. His case came up in Justice Walton's court at Sanger and he was found guilty and paid a fine of $25. The parties arrested for dynamiting fish were the Japanese. They were found over to the Superior court and there paid a fine of $250.

-PRINTERS' INK PAYS-

Society

This has been "opening week" and if you want to know what the ladies have been doing (besides housecleaning and looking for servants) you should have just taken a peek into the stores where the new fall goods have been temptingly displayed for the ladies' benefit.
But the weather has not been auspicious for openings. Broadcloths and velvets do not appeal to one these Indian summer days. The very sight of wool makes one's flesh creep and even a lovely hat—like the butterfly—is a surprise. The rain has first consideration, apparently, and surely the weather was made to order for them.
So let's hope that a good rain year will enable us to have a "peach of a hat" and all the velvets we want.

The Southern women of the state are to be the central focus in local social circles this week, for on Wednesday and Thursday the sixth annual convention of the California Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will meet in this city holding their sessions in Armory hall. Sixty or more delegates and visitors are expected from the twenty chapters in existence throughout the state all to be most charmingly entertained by General Tyree Bell chapter of this city.

It is no small task to arrange for the entertainment of such a number of visitors and making this convention a pride and a pleasure for the city is no small one. "So for some time they have had this on their minds and have worked harmoniously together to prepare for this convention which gives promise of fulfilling their hopes in regard to it. Some of the most distinguished and most highly cultured women of the state will be represented in the assembly of these daughters of "Dixie land."

A program of interest has been arranged by the committee composed of the following well known ladies: Mrs.
Joseph Dobbin Davidson, Mrs. Marvin Pope Holmes, Mrs. Willy James Tim-min, Miss Louise Mordecai of Madras, Mrs. A. H. Murray Jr. of Visalia. The local committee are in charge of Mrs.
Eugene Clarence Dunn, Mrs. James M.
Collier is chairman of the ladies and children committee; Mrs. E. D. Edwards, information; Mrs. Nellie Borden, entertainment. She has charge of the arrangements for the reception in Armory hall on Wednesday evening which is to be the social feature of the convention. She will be assisted by Mrs.
W. D. Crichton, Mrs. George Harding,
Mrs. Minor and Miss Louise Mordecai.
On the reception committee for the evening will be the state officers, the presidents of the various chapters and the ex-presidents of the local chapter.
More than 500 invitations have been issued for the reception which will doubtless be an elaborate function.
Mrs. W. J. Baker is chairman of the press committee.

The following are the state officers who will be in attendance at the convention: President, Mrs. Albert M.
Stephens, Los Angeles chapter; first Adjournment.

In the presence of her nearest friends

roll last night became the bride of Dr.

Daniel Cromwell Farnham of San Francisco. It was a simple home affair, according at the home of the bride's pa-

Blackstone avenue. Rev. J. N. Kenney of St. Paul's church performing the ceremony. The bride has spent nearly all her life in Fresno, where she is beloved by a large circle of friends.

She possesses a charm of manner and a clever mind which have ever since she was a child been the pride and joy of her family. It was with regret that her friends saw her leave for San Francisco several years ago to take up the study of osteopathy, in the practice of which she has met with much success. Her husband is of the same profession, having the chair of physiology in the College of Osteopathy in San Francisco, where he is most popular and very successful in his work.

The decorations of the double rooms where the ceremony took place were quite simple but exceedingly effective.

The slender columns entwined with ivy were placed on either side of the fireplace in the second parlor surrounded by baskets of Shasta daisies. In the back ground were banded wood warble ferns, while more formal rustic baskets effectively placed about the rooms. The veranda surrounding the house was enclosed with paper boughs and other graceful vines. Here refreshments were served after the ceremony, which took place at 10 o'clock. The ceremony was very pleasant and the parties were very much enjoyed by all present. The bride and groom were recently returned from an eight months' stay in Europe. The doctor and his wife had a number of interesting experiences of travel to relate and the evening was one of unusual interest.

tersen, who has been very successful in these meetings. They also expect to have a variety program, which will in-

of fun for the little people. When reinto the dining room where a splendid birthday feast was spread including a large, beautiful cake decorated with its nine pink candles, matching in color the table decorations. Garland of pink

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

The forests and fields are abundantly supplied with vegetation of various kinds, not alone to beautify the land, but to furnish the ingredients for making a remedy for every ill and ailment of mankind. Medicines made from the roots, herbs and barks, which nature has placed at the disposal of man, act better in every way than do strong mineral mixtures and concoctions—the products of the chemist's shop. Mineral medicines work dangerously on the delicate parts of the system, especially the stomach and bowels, by eating out the lining membrane, producing chronic dyspepsia and often entirely ruining the health. S. S. S. enjoys the distinction of being the only purely vegetable remedy on the market. It is made entirely of gentle, acting, healing, purifying roots, herbs and barks, possessing properties that build up and invigorate all parts of the system, in addition to removing all impurities and poisons from the blood. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sore and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison and all disorders of the blood by cleansing the circulation of the cause, and it cures safely as well as permanently. It is as safe for children and old people as for those in the prime of life, and is the one blood medicine that may be used without fear of bad after-effects. Book on the blood sent free to all who write.

HITS WIN FOR SEATTLE

Fitzgerald Batted Out of Box Yesterday.

Simons, New Find, Makes Good—Fisher Expects New Man.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Portland	30	41	.424
Seattle	26	49	.345
San Francisco	25	47	.338
Los Angeles	22	50	.303
Oakland	20	53	.275
Fresno	14	59	.188

Fresno's defeat places the Siwash second in the race for the pennant. Los Angeles' victory gives the Seagulls a look-in at the first division and it is not impossible that the Seals may drop to fourth place before the season is over. If Portland loses, Seattle may win the tag, but that is all it can say. The game to be played here the next five weeks will have an important bearing on the standing of the clubs.

Seattle's remarkable attack which carried the Siwash to victory again yesterday. The game was interesting and a combination of errors by the Rainiers' first and lucky hits by the visitors' batted the Indians six runs, the contest was close. The score was 8 to 2. Fitzgerald was a little wild and was taken out of the box after that second inning. "Big" Simons, a find of Dr. Burks, taking his place. Simons pitched a good game. He has not been on the diamond for several years and his unfamiliarity with the new ball rule was responsible for several blunders of which he acquired himself with credit. He has a slow ball on an inshoot and an underhand curve that are baffling and when controlled are good for a strike-out.

Fresno had a narrow escape in the first inning. Kane knocked one into Cartwright's hands and Van Buren walked. Blankenship put an easy one into Casey's hands and he threw it to Delmas in an effort to cut off Van Buren. Delmas dropped it and both men batted safe. Blankenship put another one in the same place and Delmas caught the ball this time tagging out Blankenship and pegging the ball to first. Blankenship beat it there, however, and Croll eased the situation by knocking one into Truck's mit at third.

Six hits in the second inning proved Fresno's Waterloo. Streib started the merry-go-round by landing a safe one to left field and Mott sacrificed him to second. McKane followed with a second. McKane came home on Vickers' hit along the third base line and Kane hit the first ball over to right field making two bags. Dashiwood threw the ball home, but Hogan dropped it and Vickers crossed the plate safe. Van Buren knocked a high one to McLaughlin, but he dropped it and Kane scored. Blankenship followed with a hit to left field. The ball was returned to Casey but he dropped it and Van Buren crossed the rubber safe. Blankenship safe at third. Blankenship knocked a high one into Delmas' hands and Blankenship came home on Kroll's hit to right. Croll went out at second on Streib's hit to third and the fun stopped.

Then Simons took the slab and the hits became less frequent. It looked disastrous for Fresno in the fourth inning, but Casey's quick work saved the day. Blankenship had landed safe on a scratch hit to the center of the diamond. Simons and Cartwright both went after it and one at first to take the ball. Blankenship knocked one to Simons and he put it to Delmas in the attempt to make a double play. Blankenship landed safe, but Blankenship went out at first.

Then Croll hit safe to Casey but Blankenship was caught at the plate. There was no more hitting by Seattle until the seventh inning. Croll and Streib both landed safe on hits to the gardens and effected a double steal. Simons took his hand out of his mitt after he had put it up and he hit a ball called a balk advancing both men, which scored Croll.

A three-bagger by Blankenship, followed by a safe hit to left by Streib, gave the Siwash their last run in the ninth inning. The Rainier batters hit Rubie fairly well yesterday taking eight in all, but they were scattered and netted nothing except in the seventh and eighth innings. Dashiwood knocked a hot one to Vickers at the beginning of the seventh, and Rubie fell all over himself trying to recover the ball. A high fly to right allowed Dashiwood to make second and he went to third on a wild pitch by Vickers, scoring on Hogan's hit to the right garden. Casey walked and Doyle landed safe on another fumble by Vickers, alling the bases. McLaughlin put an end to the inning by knocking one into Van Buren's mitts.

Truck began started off the eighth by a long hit over the right field fence which netted him three bags. Delmas put one into McKane's mitt and Dashiwood walked. Cartwright hit safe to left and Truck scored. Dashiwood made third on a wild pitch by Vickers and the grandstand thought that they had the big fellow going. He fooled them, however, and the next two men at bat were unable to land him for anything good.

Diamond Flash.
Rubie Vickers was more wild yesterday than he has been for some time. By some accident and was spilled on his baseball uniform and the stuff burned his legs so that he was compelled to stop at the county hospital on his way to Recreation park and have the burns dressed, considering this happening, he gave a remarkable exhibition yesterday. After the game was over, he was so lame that he walked only with difficulty.

Speaking of pitchers, Rubie Vickers now has the highest average of any pitcher in the league. He has pitched more games and won more than any other twirler on the coast. Out of fifty-eight games that he has pitched, he has won all but twelve, which gives him an average for the season of .792. Of all the games that Rubie has pitched on the road he has lost but one, if that week at Portland when he lost five games with a crippled team, he excepted.

Oscar Jones, who is also with Portland, is the next best pitcher in the league, having won twenty-eight games and lost fifteen.

Vickers has struck out more than 200 men this season. "Big" Simons, who occupied the slab for Fresno during the last half of the game, is not new to baseball. He pitched for Hartford in the Connecticut league in the season of 1903, and gave a good account of himself. During that season he pitched a twelve-inning game against the Vickers with the final score 2 to 3. He is now working for the Santa Fe as a brakeman and was discovered by Dr. Burks, Santa Fe surgeon, and a director in the local baseball club. He will undoubtedly make good. Fisher has not signed him up yet, but will give him another chance. He pitched to the players for a half hour before yesterday's game and went into the game with the odds against him, so yesterday's exhibition can hardly be considered a fair chance. He will be given another chance and should develop into a good twirler.

Mike announced last night that he expects to have Spier Baum with the team next week. Baum was with Los Angeles the first part of the season and jumped to the Pennsylvania outlaw league because he could not get along with Jim Morley. Mike is now negotiating to have him reinstated and expects to be successful. Baum is a good twirler and made a good record with the Seagulls.

Delbert Traeger, a Porterville boy, is another pitcher that Mike will try out during the last six weeks of the season. He is big and strong and ought to make good.

Double-Header Today.
A double-header for the price of one game is today's schedule. The first game will begin at 3 o'clock and there will be continuous play until the two games are finished. Fitzgerald and McGregory will be in the box for Fresno with the odds against him, so yesterday's exhibition can hardly be considered a fair chance. He will be given another chance and should develop into a good twirler.

At Los Angeles—Six men brought home by two long drives over the fence was the sensational record of the eighth inning of today's game at Chutes park. With the score standing 3 to 1 in favor of Los Angeles, the eighth opened with Oakland at the bat. Bergemann gave Francis and Smith bases on balls. Van Halgren drove the ball cleanly over right field fence, bringing in three runs. A double to center by Blackett, followed by another to left field, Devereaux, gave the visitors two additional runs, a total of five for the inning.

In the second half Buckley, Bergemann and Goughman walked. With two out, Cravat knocked the ball over center field fence, scoring Bergemann, Goughman and himself. A wild pitch allowed Buckley to score. Four runs. Oakland was unable to overtake Los Angeles' lead in the ninth and lost the game, 6 to 7. Score:

MADERA MATTERS.

Indian Charlie Jefferson's Latest Escapade is an Attempt at Suicide.

MADERA, Sept. 29.—Charlie Jefferson, the Indian detained in the county jail on a murder charge, decided to shift his mortal coil after failing to wipe out the entire personnel of the cells. Yesterday afternoon he fixed his large cambric handkerchief in a loop and waited it to a peg in his cell on the wall about four feet from the ground. After thrusting his head through the noose he sprang his legs across the floor and dropped in a sitting position. When he was discovered he was on the verge of strangulation, and it took an hour's hard work before his respiration was restored.

Stille Roan, a county looking young squaw, came to town yesterday from Minnott and complained to Judge Harcourt that she had been robbed. According to her statement, Ramona Dick, with his three squaws, Emma, Mokus and Annie, took $100 from her by violence and intimidation. ## SELMA HAPPENINGS.

Ten Thousand Tons of Raisins Will Be the Year's Output.

SELMA, Sept. 29.—Ten thousand tons of raisins from the Selma district this year is the estimate of some of the packing men. It is certain that the usual output from our local packing houses will be more than doubled this season, as the packers and seedling plants have been reaching out over a wide area for raisins. The raisins landed here usually amount to about 4000 tons, but this has been increased by a splendid yield in most vineyards and the crop is being burling of young vines. The activity of local packing house men has resulted in bringing in the raisins from a wider territory. Several hundred men and women will be employed in the grape packing during the fall season. With the good prices prevailing for raisins, the farmers will have more money than ever this fall. Local bankers state that deposits are increasing fast and will reach a high-water mark before the season is over.

J. L. Gill has moved into the Striplin residence on Tulare street and is now nicely located. Mrs. S. W. Whitmore of Sanger is here on a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Gill.

L. D. Scott has returned from Clinton, Ill., where he visited his daughter, Mrs. Dr. Spaulding, for several weeks. He attended many of the chautauque lectures in the East during the summer months.

W. Bowen, who recently purchased a four-acre tract, is building a cottage on the place and will soon be comfortably located in a home of his own. Mr. Bowen was a sufferer from the San Francisco fire and came here shortly afterward.

Mrs. Smith of Porterville is the guest of her brother, G. D. Hall, of this city. Andrew Royer returned to school this week, after a brief visit with his parents. He is attending a technical school in Oakland.

John Gordon is in San Francisco on a brief visit. Mr. Gordon recently sold his peach crop from three acres of four-year-old trees, receiving the neat sum of $1,050 in payment.

The enrollment by classes at the high school is as follows: Sub-junior class, 45; junior, 33; middle, 25; senior, 26. Total 128.

Y. M. C. A.'S AMBITIOUS PLANS FOR THE COMING YEAR'S WORK

Fourfold Actions Designed to Develop the Physical, Social, Intellectual and Religious Natures of the Youth of Fresno.

With the largest and best building of its kind in the state at the corner of I and Tulumne streets, controlled by a board of directors composed of the best men of the city, and offering unparalleled opportunities to its members, the Young Men's Christian Association of Fresno will begin tomorrow another year of successful work.

This organization, composed of young men of all classes, regardless of occupation or religious belief, stands with open doors to every young man who has an ambition in life, and whose purpose is to attain it. Character is the only test. "To help young men help themselves," is the theory of the association; for it recognizes the fourfold nature in man—physical, social, intellectual and spiritual—and believes that in the symmetrical development and uniting of these forces is the making of strong, virile manhood.

The building of the Young Men's Christian Association of Fresno is today the largest and best in the state. It has all the features of a modern association building, and a splendid equipment. It stands as a monument to the generous spirit of Fresno's leading citizens who contributed so liberally to the erection of the building, many of them giving valuable time and effort, as well as money, and many of them also contributing annually to the support of the work. This makes it possible to furnish so many privileges to young men at a cost which is within the reach of every young man.

Physical Department.

The physical department of the Young Men's Christian Association is, perhaps, the most interesting feature. Under the chairmanship of Prof. E. W. Lindsay, and with John H. Fee as physical director, it has developed the most scientific and systematic plan of physical training that can be found anywhere. Today it stands head and shoulders above any organization or institution of its kind in this country.

The gymnasium is well equipped with apparatus of modern design, including all the special features—bars, rings, horses, punching bag, etc. Mr. Fee, who is a competent and trained physical director who has had several years' experience and is a student of the work will give his entire time to the supervision of this department; assisting him, he will have a group of leaders from among the most experienced men in the gymnasium who receive special instruction, making it possible to give closer attention to the individuals in classes and outside.

In order that members may exercise intelligently and receive the most gain from the time spent in the gymnasium, Mr. Fee will give a physical examination to all at his desire, and will prescribe exercises to build up any deficiencies. Dr. A. H. Wallace has very kindly consented to give a vital examination, testing heart and lungs, and warn anyone weak in that direction against overdoing in the gymnasium work.

The gymnasium is most hygienically constructed and kept up; being large, well lighted and ventilated, and kept absolutely free from dust, thus containing as pure air as could be found in the open. Nearby are the baths and dressing rooms, which like the "gym" are well ventilated and kept with the utmost care. There are six showers and three fine porcelain tubs, but the most enjoyable and popular feature is the plunge. The water is changed every other day and is kept at a temperature of 80 degrees, winter and summer. The depth of the pool is from four to seven feet and the length thirty-five feet, giving ample room for swimming, diving and water sports.

The general dressing for young men contains about 50 combination lockers, which, as separate dressing room has been provided for the members of the Business Men's class, which is nicely furnished with carpet, chairs and extra large lockers.

The "gym" work will begin tomorrow. This year there will be four physical culture classes. Mr. Fee has arranged for Business Men's, Young Men's, Students', and Boys' classes. The Business Men's class will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 5 to 6 o'clock. Special attention will be given in this class to hygiene and recreative exercises. The first part of the class hour will be taken up with recreative games, usually indoor baseball, which is followed by a good hygienic dumb-bell drill or similar exercises. Afterward the men take a shower bath and usually a plunge, followed by a good rub down, and leave with a good appetite for their evening meal without fear of indigestion or sick headaches.

The Young Men's class will offer exceptional opportunities for a thorough and systematic physical training of the highest order. The work is to be graded and arranged in such a way that there will be continual progress from year to year. The men are arranged in squads, according to their ability, and each squad will be taught by a trained leader under the supervision of the physical director. Special attention will be given to beginners and each year sees a large number of new men in the class. The hygienic and recreative element in exercise will be emphasized throughout, so as to give the men healthy and well developed bodies. This class will meet on Monday and Thursday evenings at 8 o'clock.

A new class will be started this year for the first time. There are many young men attending the Business colleges and the High school who are in need of physical exercise, especially adapted to their condition and it is for those that the Students' class will be formed. The class will meet at a time most convenient for students to attend. In conjunction with this class the management of the association has procured the use of a vacant field within two blocks of the building where it is proposed to build a roller skate and baseball diamond. Here the boys can go into training which, supplemented with the "gym" class, will put them into first class condition for the Spring meet.

The need of the right kind of physical training is greater among boys than among men. The hollow chests, round and stoop shoulders which are so prevalent among school boys is conclusive evidence of the lack of correct physical training. The physical department of the association is in a position to render valuable service in correcting this tendency and helping boys during their growing period to develop good, sound, well formed bodies. And for this purpose two classes will be conducted: one for older boys (15 to 17), on Tuesday and Friday evenings from 7:30 to 8:30, and the other for younger boys (12 to 14), on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 4:15 and Saturday mornings at 10:15. Following the classes in the gymnasium, time is given for a swim in the pool. Parents are beginning to realize the success of physical work more and more, and where in past years they sent their children to the association to get them occupied and out of the way, they now bring them in for the benefit they get out of it.

Beside the "gym" work many forms of sport will be taken up. One of the best tennis courts in the city has been laid out adjoining the building, and the members have organized a tennis club, membership in which is open to all members of the association. Four handball courts provide recreation in this direction. An outdoor court is used during the day when the weather permits, and an indoor court in the "gym" is popular during the evenings and winter months. Tournament will be held throughout the winter, the first one coming off the middle of this month.

Basketball was originated by the Y. M. C. A. and here in Fresno it has always been a feature. It is a very popular game, both from the spectators' and players' standpoint, and a great deal of interest is taken in the game. This year several teams will be organized for a series of games to be played for the Warner trophy. Practically every boy and man is interested in the game of basketball. The indoor game is a modification of the national game and is a splendid substitute. It is a popular game with boys, young men and business men. Some exciting games will be played during the season between the various teams.

Fencing and Tumbling.

The association is extremely fortunate this year in having secured the services of one of the best fencing masters in the country, Henri Veiz. Two classes have been formed, one for business men, which will meet every Tuesday and Friday from 5 to 6 o'clock, and one for young men the same days from 7:30 to 8:30.

A number of good tumblers have been developed in the physical department during the past few years and these will form a nucleus for a class in tumbling this year. In connection with this pyramid building will be taken up and the two together will make an interesting class.

Educational Department.

The educational department with Win. Glass as chairman, has formed a number of evening classes which will be of great benefit to many. Men are beginning to realize more and more the value of a practical education, and are willing to devote two or three evenings a week in order to obtain it. Last year more than 35,000 men were enrolled in the evening classes of the association in the educational features which are provided. It is the purpose of the educational department of the association to aid young men in living more successful and better lives. It is to help them to help themselves by giving them the opportunity to better fit themselves for the position they hold, or may secure, and thus increase their earning capacity, as well as be of better service to their employers. The very best instructors have been secured to teach the classes which are to be conducted. Men who are specialists in the subjects they teach and know how to impart their knowledge to the students of the class. While the instruction will be in class, emphasis will be placed on individual work, and students will be advanced as rapidly as they show proficiency. These classes will commence Tuesday evening, October 2nd, continuing for six months. All work will be individual and each pupil will advance according to his ability and energy.

Wm. Payne, an expert accountant, has been secured to teach the business branches and penmanship. Mr. Payne is especially qualified to teach these subjects, having had long practical experience.

In bookkeeping thorough instruction will be given in fundamental principles of the science, and their application, including instruction in practice in journalizing, opening books, posting and closing ledgers, keeping retail and wholesale sets of books; also the study of commercial paper and business forms. This class will be held Tuesday and Friday evenings, 8:15 to 9:15. The aim of the penmanship class will be to develop a good business writing by means of blackboard illustrations, written copies, personal instruction and business forms. This class will meet on Tuesday and Friday evenings from 7:30 to 8:15.

Department of Drawing.

The departments of free-hand architectural and mechanical drawing will be under the charge of Prof. L. A. Buchanan, who is considered to be one of the best instructors in this state. Prof. Buchanan was professor of drawing at Stanford for four years. In free-hand drawing the work will consist in drawing from models, objects, casts, and from nature, in pencil, crayon and charcoal. The instruction will also include the elements of perspective and its relation to drawing and sketching from nature, as an introduction to color work or painting. This course will be extremely helpful to the clerks, advertising men, and to the man of artistic tastes, as well as a great help to the architect and mechanic in general. The course in architectural drawing will be made as practical as possible, beginning with the elementary principles of geometric constructions, projections, developments, drawing from objects, measurements, working plans of various architectural and building constructions, such as framing masonry, building details, etc., perspective drawing and color work. The class in mechanical drawing will consist of a general course of geometric drawing, geometric projection of surfaces and solids, intersections and developments and geometric perspective. The drawing and design of machine parts, including gearing, cranks, pulleys, screws, etc., and machine details in general, including steam and gas engines. All these drawing classes will meet Tuesday and Friday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30.

A business English class, treating with the sentence, simple analysis, punctuation, capitals, parts of speech, proper use of words, vocabulary, business forms, letter writing and correspondence, will meet on Monday and Thursday evenings from 8:30 to 9:30. And a class in practical business arithmetic, elementary or advanced, as the student may require, on Monday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 8:30.

Musical Education.

Prof. A. G. Wahlberg, formerly several years leader of the First Presbyterian choir and at present instructor of music in the public schools, will have charge of a class in vocal music, hours to be announced later.

While the musical clubs are mostly social affairs, a great deal of musical knowledge is gained by those participating in them. The mandolin club is a musical organization of high order. It has a definite club organization, and is under the expert leadership of Herbert Levy. Regular meetings of the club for instruction and concert practice will be held Wednesday evenings of each week. This club is much in demand. It is expected it will be greatly enlarged this year, five new members having joined already.

The glee club is composed of young men having good voices and some musical training, who desire advanced instruction and drills in the singing of glee music. The club is fortunate in having for its musical director Prof. A. G. Wahlberg, whose ability as a director is well known in Fresno musical circles. Occasional concert events furnish an additional objective and helpful means of training.

There are quite a number of amateur photographers in the association, and these have decided to organize a camera club. A well-equipped dark room has been provided. The plan is to have meetings for demonstrations, exhibitions and discussions of an interesting character.

Social Affairs.

The social department of the association is under the able chairmanship of F. Dean Prescott, a leader in Y. M. C. A. work.

The club rooms are splendidly arranged and attractively furnished in every particular. The lobby with its easy chairs, a handsome Dutch fireplace, the lounge room with its Morris chairs and leather couches, the game room with its checkers and chess—any one of these is an attraction in itself and all together make the place not only inviting, but fascinating. Here, too, the young man finds congenial and helpful companions and may spend his leisure time amidst wholesome environments.

Throughout the year social functions of various kinds are given, which are always well attended and every one has a good time. This month the Women's Auxiliary plans to hold an opening reception. Every month mixed socials will be held and several joint socials with the Y. W. C. A. will be special features.

Once a month there will be a members' meeting. The program will be largely of a social character for the purpose of promoting a better acquaintance among the members. In addition to this, different features of association work will be presented by chairmen of committees and discussed by the members. The annual members' meeting will be held on Tuesday, October 2nd, for the election of officers and directors, reports of past officers, and discussion of plans for this year's work.

Dormitory.

During the past year the dormitory portion of the building has been completed, providing thirteen splendid rooms which are nicely furnished and rented to members of the association at reasonable rates. This gives to young men away from home a place which may be considered "next to home," with the additional privileges and conveniences which the association provides. Even at this early date all of the rooms have been taken. At the office is kept a list of rooms and boarding places which are known to be good and from which a young man may select a place to his liking and convenience.

The reading room is furnished with the standard magazines, daily papers and religious weeklies. A good place to spend an hour or an evening in recreative or solid reading.

More attention will be given this year to securing employment for young men. Some of the largest business firms of the city frequently ask the association to furnish them men.

Religious Department.

Under A. L. Munger, chairman of the religious department of the association, the club has made much headway. The first meeting will be held today. The work of the Young Men's Christian Association is all religious in its aim. The religious meetings and Bible classes are not membership privileges. They are open to all men, whether members or not, who may desire to have a part in them. Sunday meetings will be held for men, and the aim is to always make them simple, attractive and practical. The subjects are just such things as will help a man in his everyday life, treated in a plain matter-of-fact way. The speakers will be the best that can be obtained—local pastors, business men and some from afar from abroad. The best instrumental and vocal music will have a prominent place. Prof. A. G. Wahlberg will have charge of this feature, assisted by the Mandolin and Glee clubs as well as outside talent.

A real working knowledge of the Bible is the objective in the Bible classes. Two courses will be provided, one being the first year of the four years' course of systematic Bible study, and the other of a general character. Members of classes will form a Bible Study club to have for its object the promotion of the Bible study within the association and in the community and provide for social features.

Altogether the prospects for a large membership were never so bright as at the present time. The officers of the association have set the membership mark at 500 before Christmas time, 300 of whom have already signed in.

Membership.

The following items regarding membership may be of interest to many: Eligibility.—The membership privileges of the Fresno Young Men's Christian Association are open to any self-respecting man, without regard to religious belief, denomination or creed.

Regular Membership.—Ten dollars annual dues admits one to all privileges of the association, including use of gymnasium and classes, swimming pool, shower and tub baths, reading room, social rooms, game rooms, admission to clubs upon payment of club fees, and admission to educational classes upon payment of class fees. Dues are payable $5.00 in advance, and $5.00 within sixty days. Quarterly memberships are issued for $3.50 in advance. Students Membership.—A special rate of $5.50 is made for students coming to the city to attend school during the winter, which entitles them to full privileges for six months, and a special class in the gymnasium is conducted for their convenience. The same rate is also charged students who are only for the evening classes, but is limited to entrance in these classes and clubs and the reading rooms and special privileges.

Boys' Membership.—The membership in the boys' department is open to boys between the ages of 12 and 17 years. This costs them $2 a year and entitles them to the privileges of the association at stated hours. Boys between the ages of 12 and 13 years are given the use of the rooms on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. At these times their gymnasium classes meet and time is given for a swim in the pool.

Boys between the ages of 15 and 17 have the use of the rooms during the day after school hours and gymnasium and pool on Tuesday and Friday evenings until 9 o'clock.

PINNELL-WILSON WEDDING EVENT IN ODD FELLOWSHIP

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Pinnell, whose wedding was an event in fraternal circles yesterday.

In the annals of Odd Fellowship in Fresno there has never been a more elaborate nor spectacular event than that which took place in Odd Fellows' hall last night—the wedding of Miss Christina Wilson and O. J. Pinnell. Nothing could have been more fitting than such a marriage for this popular couple, both of whom are prominent in Odd Fellow circles, being members of long standing and faithful service. The hall was taxed to its utmost capacity to accommodate the wedding guests, who included all of the members of the Rebekah lodges, the Encampment and Canton, together with the most intimate friends of the bride and groom. Brilliant lights and elaborate decorations made the scene a gay one and a fit setting for the bride and her attendants and the accompanying Canton in uniform. Everything in connection with the ceremonial rites had been previously rehearsed and the ceremony was conducted with perfect smoothness.

To Mrs. C. E. Traves is due the praise for careful management and wise planning of the wedding arrangements, which were entirely in her hands. Mrs. Emma Egli, district deputy, also contributed a large share toward the planning of the plans, and Mrs. Kittie Tyler and charge of the decorating. The wedding supper was in charge of Mrs. Bernheimer. Each one planned the work so systematically that when the time for the ceremony arrived at 9 o'clock everything was in perfect readiness. In the main hall, innumerable garlands of white and green ribbons crossed and re-crossed the hall, forming a bower of daintiness, while all about were bowls and baskets filled with roses and carnations.

At one end of the hall hung suspended a large white wedding bell gleaming with incandescent lights, and beneath this the solemn vows were exchanged. Rev. Duncan Wallace, in performing the ceremony, used the Episcopal ring service. The bride never looked more fair than in her wedding gown of soft white silk beautifully trimmed with lace and the wedding veil becomingly arranged in her hair with orange blossoms. The groom wore the uniform of the Canton, of which he is a valued member. The Canton work was beautifully done and added greatly to the impressiveness of the service. The bridesmaids, Miss May Wright, Miss Flora Ford, Miss Lizzie O'Brien and the Misses Lena, Edith and Lizzie Drenth, were charmingly gowned in dainty muslins, all in white, and carried bunches of deep pink carnations and maiden hair ferns besides the usual wands of the drill work. The tableau was completed by the two dainty little flower girls and the tiny ring bearer, the latter Miss Beanie White, a charming little four-year-old, daintily clad in the sheersuit and bearing the ring on its white satin pillow. The two little flower girls, in contrast to the ring bearer, wore brunettes, their dark curls contrasting charmingly with their snowy frocks. They were Jennie Climp-

STREET CAR MEN RAISED

New Wage Schedule Effective Tomorrow.

Local Railway Company Raises Salaries of Employees.

President A. C. Baich of the San Joaquin Power company, arrived in Fresno last night and authorized a raise in the salaries of platform men in the employ of the street car company that will amount to a ten per cent increase of the present wage.

The increase will go into effect tomorrow morning and is in line with the general policy of the Huntington interests to anticipate a request from the street car men by giving the raise in salary before it is asked for.

ing more for street car men, the local street car company has experienced great difficulty in keeping men and for the past few weeks several cars have had student motorists. The street car that ran into young Arthur Gronland on Fresno street on the 13th of this month was in charge of a student motorist.

The new scale of wages that goes into effect tomorrow will affect only platform men that is, motormen and conductors, the other employees not being affected except in a few individual cases.

The old wage for regular men is 22 1/2 cents an hour, and 22 cents for extra men. Under the new scale, extra men are to get 22 cents an hour. Regular men of less than one year's standing are to get 23 1/2 cents an hour, between one and two years in the service they will get 24 cents an hour, between two and three years they will get 24 1/2 cents an hour, between three and four years, 25 cents an hour. This is as far as the new scale will affect present employees of the street railway company, as the corporation has only been running for four years. Between four and five years they are to get 25 cents an hour, between five and six years, 26 cents; between six and seven years, 26 1/2 cents; between seven and eight years, 27 cents; between eight and nine years, 27 1/2 cents; and above ten years, 28 cents an hour.

TOOK SPECIAL WORK AT EUROPEAN CLINICS

Dr. Walker Back After a Year's Study in His Specialty.

Dr. J. R. Walker, who has just returned after a year spent in Europe, took post-graduate work in his specialty in the leading institutions on the continent. He first entered the Royal London Ophthalmic hospital, where he took work on diseases of the eye. He entered as an assistant to two of the leading surgeons of the famous institution and had full opportunity for the examination and treatment of all patients coming under that care. This institution has the largest eye clinic in the world, 500 patients being treated daily the year around. The doctor taking post-graduate work is assigned to two surgeons as clinical assistant and conducts the examination of patients under the direction of eminent specialists. In addition, night lectures and demonstrations are given five days in the week. Dr. Walker took work in the surgical amphitheaters of the institution.

In Golden Square hospital for ear, nose and throat, Dr. Walker went through the same daily routine. From London he went to Berlin and visited the hospitals there. He attended clinics at which Professor Hirschberg, a famous eye specialist, gave demonstrations. He also saw the work of Professor Jansen, who has a world-wide reputation as an ear, nose and throat specialist. From there he went to Freiburg, where he took a course in the Albert Ludwig university, where he took a course in ear, nose and throat under Professor Killian, whose work is especially noted for original methods. He has devised special instruments for his work, one of his chief feats being the removal of foreign bodies from the lungs by a method of his own. Dr. Walker obtained a set of these instruments to use in his own practice.

UP-TO-DATE SOCIALISM

History and Present Status Was Described.

Mills Ridiculed Present Labor Movement in Politics as Ineffective.

Last evening in the court house park, Walter Thomas Mills, the socialist, spoke to a large and attentive audience on "Peace in the World of Labor." Mills began at the beginning of things, starting with the savage man on through the age of barbarism and up to the present civilized man, he showed the ever present warring between those that had and those that had not. His picture of the long transition from savagery to civilization was most interesting. He gave at length and in a most interesting manner the history of the economic progress of man from the earliest times up to the present fight between labor and capital—all through it was an economic war.

When he got down to modern times he brought out, giving in full a story of the formation of the first labor unions, the struggle between employer and employee; the strike conceived by the lookout, the boycott by the black list, and finally dwelling at length upon the great struggle for mastery in the Limerick strike of 1891.

Here Mr. Mills began to refer to personalities of the present time. He named ex-President Cleveland, accusing him of dealing directly with the Pullman company through their attorney, Walker, and in putting down what up to that time had been a peaceful strike by armed force. In contrast to the peaceful power which in public opinion Mr. Mills spoke of as the darling and excellent work of Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco in his settlement of the street car strike, which began soon after his taking office.

In dealing with the political parties, Mr. Mills reviewed each one in turn. The Democratic party he said, was composed of 95 per cent workers and 5 per cent masters; the Republican party of 95 per cent workers and 5 per cent not only masters, but leached money masters; who ran everything. He said that it was time the people stopped voting for them and began to vote for themselves. The time was at hand for a battle at the ballot box.

President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor he held up to great ridicule, especially the manner of his latest plunge into politics. Two years ago Gompers had told the federation that it should not take labor into politics. Today he is pushing it in as fast as he can—getting a Democrat elected here, a Republican there, an Independent somewhere else. Mills compared the federation with the farmer who was told he did not need a wagon on his farm. Then later he was told he must get one, get it by pieces from his neighbors, a wheel here, a shaft there, a dashboard somewhere else. And what kind of a wagon he had when he got through.

"For instance," said Mr. Mills, "Gompers wrote a certain Republican state senator elected in this state. He also wrote a Democratic governor. Now, supposing both of these men are elected. His Republican senator takes a bill through the senate and his Democratic governor vetoes it, or his governor wants a certain law passed and his senator does all he can to fight it. What good is that going to do labor? Again, I say, stop voting for the other fellow and begin to vote for yourselves."

Mr. Mills brought up many examples of ideal socialism and not a few practical ones, receiving great applause from his audience. After the lecture he devoted nearly an hour to answering questions from his listeners, which he did in a logical and intelligent manner.

EIGHT ON HELM JURY

Defense Has Exhausted Its Peremptory Challenges.

Fifth Motion for a Change of Venue Is Denied By Judge Church.

The Willie Helm jury now numbers eight. Yesterday's proceedings in the case were marked by an agreement between the attorneys to waive the Saturday afternoon half holiday and continue the sitting all day, and by the middle of the afternoon the defense had used its last peremptory challenge. Shortly after the eighth juror, J. J. Schreck, was sworn in. The seventh juror, Eugene Washer, was secured in the forenoon.

When Schreck had been passed by the court as qualified to act in the case, Attorney Everts requested the court to permit more than the twenty peremptory challenges allowed it, on the ground that the defendant had exhausted these in discussing men who were biased in the premises and should have been disqualified by the court. The motion was denied.

In the morning, the defense made a fifth motion for a change of venue. This was based on the reasons previously assigned, and also upon the claim that the remarks made by Attorney Hinds on the day before had had such an effect upon the jurors already chosen and the requirement present in the courtroom at the time that it would be impossible to have a fair trial at this time. The motion was denied.

During the day, a number of men were excused because it was found that they were not on the assessment roll. The prosecution exercised no peremptory challenges. Those who were excused for cause were as follows: Mr. S. Ireland, Claude Erickson, A. G. Johnson, E. H. LaRue, Neils C. Christiansen, P. H. Turner, A. A. Davidson, H. P. Granger, B. E. Hutchinson, Nels Hansen, John Nelson, E. A. Curtis, James G. McMillen, Fred Swanson, E. L. Potter, J. W. Thomas, L. W. Wiley and Jesse Durham. Those peremptorily excused by the defense were George Hardie and William Harrah.

The defense made an especial effort to get Harrah excused for cause, and it was upon him that they had to exercise their twentieth challenge. At last it was declared that he was not on the assessment roll. He declared that he was. An examination of the rolls showed that the venireman was qualified in this respect.

Court will be convened at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning to complete the jury.

A court order of a somewhat unusual nature was made yesterday, when on stipulation of the attorneys in the action of the John Heinlein company against the Lake Land Canal and Irrigation company was ordered that the trial should go over, "until after the election" to be held on a definite date later.

MENDOTA GIRLS KILL LARGE RATTLE SNAKE

Attack Reptile With Buggy Whip and Beat It to Death in Flare Fight.

Dora Davies and Edna Bourge, Mendota girls, attacked a rattlesnake near that town last Friday morning, banded and killed the reptile after a fierce struggle in which the snake made several leaps for the two plucky girls.

The girls were on the road from Mendota to the camp of the Heisinger Development company about five miles west of Mendota. They were accompanied by Bert Gill, a Fresno youth who was employed at the camp and to get whom the girls went to Mendota every morning.

When the party got about three miles from Mendota, they espied a large rattler in the road and the girls thought that it would be a task to kill the snake. They attacked him with the short buggy whip that they had, and the reptile coiled itself for a spring. Unfrightened they beat it over the head several times but did not kill it until it had sprung at them several times, narrowly missing its aim.

The rattler has twelve rattles which the girls divided between them as trophies of their fight.

ARMY ORDERED TO CUBA

American administration but that he considered it his duty to do so in order to facilitate the execution of the president's policy toward Cuba. The mission was appointed by President Taft to represent the United States to Washington in June, 1902, being the first mission assigned by the government of the republic to a foreign post, thus making him the senior of the diplomatic corps of Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Preparations for the military occupation of Cuba moved at a rapid rate today, after the receipt of the dispatch from Secretary Taft, urging the sending of an army to Cuba. All the organizations making up the first expedition arranged by the general staff were advised of the request of the secretary of war and Quartermaster General Humphrey and his assistants began to hire the transports and order supplies delivered immediately at Newport News, where the first expedition will be mobilized. Sufficient supplies to last 5000 men for thirty days are being rushed to that point, at full speed. Quartermaster's depots at Philadelphia, Boston and New York and many other cities are being drawn upon, and Captain Smiley, of the Fifteenth Infantry, has been ordered to Newport News, where he will secure store houses and look after the supplies.

Brigadier General E. J. Wint, commanding the department of the Missouri, was ordered to Newport News today, where he will assume full charge of the embarkation of troops. Although the military secretary and the chief of staff were unable to communicate with President Roosevelt, preparations for the first expedition were only little delayed, as the secretary of war, the president and the members of the general staff had gone so thoroughly over the situation that there is a general understanding as to the policy of the administration.

Full details of the organization of the first expedition were made public by the chief of staff tonight. Lieutenant W. W. Wetherston is to be chief of the expedition and he will have as his assistants the following officers of the general staff corps: Major General W. Mann, Major General Francis J. Kernan, Major David Gallahue, Captain George W. Reed, Captain Charles T. Mencher and Captain John W. Farlow.

The military secretary of the expedition will be Captain William G. Huan, of the artillery corps. Major General William N. Langhitt is to be engineer in it. The inspector general will be Major General L. S. Greble. Secretary Taft telegraphed today for Major Jefferson H. Keck, of the medical department, and Frank McIntyre, captain of the Nineteenth Infantry, who will sail for Havana at the earliest possible moment. Captain McIntyre has been temporarily in charge of the bureau of insular affairs of the war department, and has had experience in both Cuba and the Philippines.

One hundred and twenty-five members of the signal corps from Fort Omaha, Neb., have been ordered to join the expedition and will be under the command of Captain George Gibbs. In addition to the troops originally ordered to Newport News, the Fourteenth battery of field artillery now at Fort Sheridan, Ill., also will join the expedition.

News goes that all the troops which may be sent to Cuba are in readiness, and as each of the organizations arrive at Newport News it will be equipped with the latest improved army rifle. This has a knife bayonet now generally in use in the army. It was demonstrated in the Russo-Japanese war that the rod bayonet was not a success and consequently the general staff has decided to abandon it.

Quartermaster General Humphrey was advised today that the steamer Missouri, in New York harbor, which was released to transport animals to Cuba, probably will not be available as she has been chartered to transport steel rails from New York to Galveston. J. P. Morgan, who controls the steamer, is willing to let the government have her in case permission to take the rails to Galveston in British bottoms can be had, but this is regarded as impossible.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Governor Taft's proclamation to the Cubans was read with much interest in official circles here. The action of the United States was apparently expected and approved.

PRICES CURRENT

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Trading in the wheat pit was of small volume, but the tone of the market was quite strong. The futures were due largely to a scarcity of offerings. The market was bullishly affected by a continuance of light movement in the Northwest, notwithstanding favorable weather conditions. Receipts today at Minneapolis and Duluth were only 584 cars, while the corresponding day a year ago the arrivals amounted to 1,115 carsloads. INSIDE HISTORY OF THE NOMINATION OF GILLETTSAN FRANCISCO ARGONAUT FURNISHES SOME INTER-ESTING FACTS CONCERNING THE DEFEAT OF PAR-DEE AND THE ACTION OF THE SANTA CRUZ CON-VENTION IN SELECTING THE NOMINEE.

It is strange truly that in a state notable for the number and the almost fierce competition of its journals devoted to the gathering and printing of current news, no one has yet given us a truthful account of the circumstances leading up to the nomination of James N. Gillett for the governorship of California. It is a story full of interest—even that of "human interest" which is so cultivated by sensational newspapers. Mr. Gillett's name, so far as we can learn, was not mentioned or even thought of in connection with the governorship until about the beginning of the current year. He has not been a man to rush into the political or social limelight, and therefore not what may be called a conspicuous state figure, although his public service in and out of the legislature has been notable and long sustained. His home is removed from the center of political interests, and he has been, when not engaged in his public duties, distinctly a home-staying man. His character is as far removed as possible from that of the political self-seeker, and thoughts of promotion in his mind, appear to have been subordinated to thoughts of service. A more characteristically and interesting "story" to use a reporter's phrase—of American politics could not be conceived that which would describe in detail how Mr. Gillett was drawn from apparently fixed relationships to which he has been intimately devoted, and brought into his present position before the people of California.

The beginning of this story lies back in the political history of 1902, when the Republican state convention of California met at the state capital. It was at that convention the then governor, J. T. Gage, was the "programme"—that is to say, he was elected by the "organization" from renomination, and was backed up by all the forces that the "organization" could command. Thomas Flint, of San Benito county, was the anti-organization candidate, and had behind him a very considerable body of devoted friends. Dr. George Pardee, of Alameda county, and Mr. J. O. Hayes, of Santa Clara county, were what may be called the minor candidates, each with a fairly organized support, each with a fairly organized support. It did not take very long to determine that the nomination of Gage was an impossibility. Then it became a question as to which of the other three candidates, Flint, Pardee or Hayes, should get the votes of the latter-day supporters of Gage. Pardee and Hayes especially sought to obtain them by negotiations and treaty, and after a few strenuous hours the votes went to Pardee, thus giving him the nomination.

The campaign that followed was one of hard fighting all along the line. Dr. Pardee was not a popular candidate. He lacked the magnetic quality that made Gage, with all his faults of temperament, an effective party champion, and there had been developed somewhere back in his political history a fixed antagonism between him and organized labor. In the end he was elected, scorching in by a plurality of 2439 votes, nearly 2000 behind the votes for the lieutenant governor (the Hon. Alden Anderson, then of Solano county, and now of Sacramento county), whose larger plurality may be taken as representing the normal party strength as developed in the election of 1902. San Francisco nominally a Republican stronghold, left Pardee 9536 votes behind Lane, and in Sacramento county, which time out of mind has been reckoned as dependably Republican, he was beaten by 493 votes. In his own county of Alameda his vote was 13,915, while that of Congressman Metcalf was 13,122. His failure in the northern and middle sections of the state was all but disastrous, for in the final count he got in by a bare plurality, as already stated, of 2540.

At all the larger points of public responsibility Governor Pardee's administration has been highly satisfactory. In many years California has not had an administration of her executive office which has so commended itself to the judgment of the people. Upon taking office Governor Pardee abandoned his professional work at San Francisco and Oakland, and established his home at his plantation, and since the day of his inauguration he has given himself devotedly to his public duties. His immediate executive assistants were judiciously selected, and the routine business of his office has at all times been kept well in hand. There has been no scandal in connection with affairs under Governor Pardee. His conduct of public affairs has won for Governor Pardee a wide popular approval, and it is probable that a majority of the citizens of California would have been glad to see him nominated by his party for a second term. But he was not so named; in truth his candidacy made rather a sorry showing in the recent convention at Santa Cruz.

How came it so? Not only has Governor Pardee been an effective manager of the business interests of the state, but he has, on the whole, been a distinctly gracious personality. The door of his private office stands wide open at all times. Any man, woman, or child, high or humble, can easily gain access to him. He has taken upon himself an immensely large share in visiting local communities upon their invitation, and in lending the dignities of his official character to popular and ceremonial occasions. And yet when it came to name his successor only a lean minority of the Republicans of the party stood for him. By overwhelming voice the nomination was not given to Pardee but to Gillett.

The theories of different observers and writers upon the outcome are, as readers of the Argonaut know, many and diverse. If we may judge from the expressions of the newspapers—particularly of Democratic newspapers—the "railroad influence" is in many quarters thought to have been paramount. There appears indeed to be a studied effort to discredit Mr. Gillett as a candidate on the theory that he was selected and groomed by these same "railroad influences" to defeat the man in whose selection four years ago it was presumed to have joined as against Flint and Hayes.

By way of examining this theory, perhaps we cannot do better than consider the adverse side of Pardee's career in the governorship. Governor Pardee's home is in Alameda county, where he has long been the leader of a faction in the Republican party more or less bitterly opposed to another faction headed by Secretary Metcalf of President Roosevelt's cabinet. It has been no small part of Governor Pardee's personal policy to sustain his individual power in his own county, and to this end he has appointed to public positions disposable at the hands of the governor an undue proportion of Alameda county men. Early in Governor Pardee's official career his partiality for Alameda county men—and for members of his own faction—became a popular joke, and like many popular jokes it has had a serious basis. Aspiring persons all over the state who have failed to receive certain gubernatorial appointments they desired have believed themselves unfairly dealt with, and have charged it up against Pardee as a private use of his public powers in the interest of his own friends and political supporters of Alameda county. The numerous petitions to party preference (thus brought into individual prominence) have been very considerable, and they have tended to create local centers of adverse feeling in every county.

Again, Governor Pardee, while in the main working with the state "organization" and at all times willing to have its support, has not been kindly disposed to party organizations in the several counties. He has co-operated with them sufficiently to give them hopes of his friendship, and has at the same time sufficiently disregarded them to excite their resentment. As a native of California, educated at our State university, and having a wide acquaintance throughout the state, he has had in nearly every county some personal friend whose judgment has been with him of greater weight and authority than the recommendations of the political and official enemy leaders. There is probably not a county in the state in which he has not an office outside the lines and over the protest of those most active in local affairs. It is largely due to this perhaps that there came into existence throughout the state many groups of disappointed and disgruntled persons.

forces which dominate Los Angeles

When the convention met at Santa Cruz, early this month, there was found in attendance there, and hostile to Governor Pardee's hopes of renomination, an extraordinary assemblage of political forces. It was plainly to be seen that the "organization" was not for him, and it was quite as plainly to be seen that the greater number of those who have hitherto formed the backbone of the anti-organization forces were likewise against him. There was Dr. Rowell of Fresno; there were those who represented ex-Senator Bard of Ventura; there were, in addition to the official representatives of Los Angeles county, those who personally represented General Oils of the Los Angeles Times; there was Congressman Sedgwick, whose attachment for Mr. Gillett is the product of their mutual services at Washington; actively in the forefront of the Gillett movement stood the united representation of the counties forming his congressional district under the highly effective leadership of George Knight. The only organized party group of votes not attached either to one candidate or the other was the Ruff element of San Francisco, which went to Gillett when voting time came, although a sufficient strength had been developed to win the nomination without them.

Now there is no question as to where the "organization" stood—it was against Pardee and it was for Gillett; but it is presumptions to say, as many have said, that it was the dominating force in Gillett's convention campaign. It has long been philosophy that those who apparently likely to be party servants as party masters. Leadership under democratic systems is not so often won by antagonism as by concession. Party leadership in American states is commonly the prize, if it be a prize, of him who brings into operation the several county or local organizations. In these considerations are to be found the secret of Gillett's success. His "discovery" was undoubtedly at the hands of his personal friend George Knight, whose activity was stimulated by resentment against Pardee, this feeling originating in the senatorial contest of 1905.

When Gillett was first suggested for the governorship he was only one among many receptive candidates; but the movement in his favor—backed by the personal urgency of Mr. Knight and supported by his enthusiastically devoted congressional district—gained momentum more rapidly than any other, and as a growing force soon attracted to itself all the elements of opposition to Pardee save that alone of San Francisco and Santa Clara counties. The "organization," if the truth be told, found its own course prescribed for it by the strength of a movement which it had no serious reason to protest against, but which it probably could not have beaten if it had tried. Possibly the "organization" might have joined with Alameda and Sacramento and a few other counties in forcing the nomination of Pardee, but it could only have been done, if at all, under the whip and spur of an "organization" programme, with the certainty of meeting at the polls a solid opposition from organized labor—San Francisco Argonaut.

SLAYS WIFE AND ENDS OWN LIFE IN DESPAIR OVER FATAL ILLNESS

Charles Brewer, Dying of Consumption, Shoots His Wife Rather than Leave Her Behind Him in the World—After Rash Act He Seeks Little Son, Who Escapes Death By Hiding—Slayer Then Blows Out His Own Brains—Dead Man Was Victim of Street Car Accident One Year Ago, and Suffered from Lung Hemorrhages—Was Ordered to Hospital, and Told that Death Would Follow from Disease Within Short Time.

Mrs. Ida Brewer.
Slain by her husband, who could not bear to be parted in death from her.

Bertie Brewer.
The 9-year-old son of the unhappy couple, and who narrowly escaped sharing the domestic tragedy.

Charles Brewer.
Who killed his wife prior to committing suicide, during despondency from illness.

Lying on two marble slabs in the city morgue are the silent forms of a young couple who figured yesterday morning in one of the most terrible tragedies that ever shocked this city. The dead are Charles Brewer and his wife, the later being the murdered victim of the former who followed her into eternity an instant later as a suicide. That their young child, 9-year-old Bertie, did not share their fate is due alone to his hiding from the homicidal mania of the father, who searched for him before ending his own life.

Discovered By Neighbors.
At about 6 o'clock yesterday morning Joseph Douglas, an employee of Hollenbeck & Bush's planing mill, who lives in the house adjoining the Brewers' at No. 707 M street, was startled by the report of a shot. Before he was able to leave his house and enter that of his neighbors to the first shot was followed by several others, and as he entered their house, he met the little boy fleeing from the place in fright.

When he entered a horrifying sight met his gaze. Stretched on a lounge in the front room lay the corpse of Brewer, lying face downward, with his feet resting on the floor. Blood flowed from a gaping hole in the center of his brow, and both hands were clasped. In a bedroom beyond, lying on the bed with covering, was the dead body of his wife. There were two bullet holes in her head, one being directly between the eyes, while the other was on the left brow just below the hair line. The corpse was in perfect repose with no indication of a last struggle. The woman had evidently been slain in her sleep and never opened her eyes from her last sleep. Blood was flowing from both wounds, and the spectacle presented in both rooms was a ghastly one.

Little Son's Story.
The little son re-entered the house with Mr. Douglas, and explained all he knew to the neighbors who flocked into the house. He stated that he was lying by the side of his mother in bed, while his father occupied the adjoining room. At about 6 o'clock, he was aroused by the entry of his father into the room. His mother was asleep and never woke up. He was only half awake when the father came in, and thought that he came for some medicine. His father stood by the bed, looking at his mother for a minute or two, but did not speak, nor did the little fellow say anything, being too drowsy to pay much heed to his father's presence. Just as the boy was about to drop off to sleep again he saw his father raise his hand, and then he saw a revolver in it. A second later there was a shot, and another. The lad jumped out of bed and hid behind the door. He felt something warm all over his face and wiping it off saw that it was blood. After standing at the bedside for a moment, Brewer turned and glanced about for the boy. Not seeing him in sight he went out of the room. It was then that he had seen his mother lying just as he had left her, with two awful holes in her head, from which blood spurted in streams. Spelled out at the fearful sight, he was about to rush out and fly to his mother's side, when he heard another shot in the front room, and heard a groan. With-out waiting for anything more, Bertie ran out to the door, and nearly fell over his father's legs, which were upon the floor, as the body leaned over the couch.

Coroner Investigates.
The neighbors at once notified Deputy Coroner Bean, while Police-men Kennedy, Muller and Drenth responded to a call to police headquarters, as they removed the little son from the sickening spectacle. The boy preserved the utmost composure and never shed a tear or showed any excitement or horror. Turning his face upward to a neighbor, he inquired, "I wonder why pa did that? He didn't hate ma, I'm sure." When he was led away, he discussed the tragedy calmly to his little friends outside, and once remarked, "Now, I have nobody at all to like me." He watched the crowds outside the house cautiously and watched with boyish inquisitiveness the work of the undertakers who arrived soon after.

Deputy Coroner Bean made a thorough investigation of the place with Attorney E. A. Williams, who accompanied him, and who is a relative of the deceased woman. It was discovered that four, if not five shots were fired altogether. One of the bullets went through some wood-work near the door, dividing the two rooms in which the dead persons were killed. After the bodies were removed to the morgue of Stephens & Bean, autopsies were performed by Dr. Sample, who located the bullets which traversed through the brain section of both craniums. The inquests will probably be held tomorrow afternoon unless Coroner Cowan has the necessary evidence at hand today to carry out the investigation of the jury. The funeral arrangements will be decided upon later, but it is thought that the remains of husband and wife will be interred in one grave in Mountain View.

Description of Pair.
Charles Brewer, the unhappy husband who worked the tragedy, was a native of Ukiah, Cal., and was 34 years of age. He leaves a father, mother, one brother and two sisters, all of whom live in the home town. Thirteen years ago he met and married Miss Ida Clayton, who was then only 16 years of age. She was living with her father, George Clayton, who is a rancher in comfortable circumstances. Nine years ago their boy Bertie was born. Mrs. E. A. Williams, wife of Attorney E. A. Williams, of this city, is a cousin of the deceased woman, and among other relatives are Mrs. D. Shields, and Mrs. M. C. Lynn of San Francisco, who are her aunts.

After following various avocations the young husband settled down to the calling of a motor-man on the street car line service. A man of temperate habits, who seldom touched a glass of liquor, and never used tobacco or cards, he saved his money and was happy in his home life with his charming young wife and pretty little son. The family circle went along without a ripple of discontent or strife until one year ago, when he was badly injured in an accident while working at his post. While at the corner of A and Over, and Eugene streets in San Francisco, he tried to stop his car, but the lever caught. After a short struggle, the grip gave way to the muscular force of the brawny gentleman, but he was precipitated against the window, being thrown with such crushing force against the woodwork that his lungs were injured in the impact. Up to this time he was a man of powerful physique and had never known a day's illness. From the day of his accident, Brewer was a changed man. An illness following the shock left him with the discovery that his lungs were affected, and as a month or two passed by it seemed as though he was picked out as a victim of rapid decline from pulmonary weakness. He received treatment in the best hospitals in San Francisco, and after a month came to this city at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Williams, who thought that the change to a southern part of the state might prove beneficial to his impaired health. Soon after his arrival here, however, his condition became alarming, violent hemorrhages seizing him at unexpected intervals of frequency, and being followed with general debility and emaciation. The little son was sent to San Francisco to be cared for in the Protestant orphanage until his father's health became better, while his parents were sent to Los Angeles by their relatives. Mr. Brewer was there sent to the Barlowe sanitarium, where he remained for four months and gained rapidly in health. He was discharged as cured, although the doctors stated that his left lung was gone, while the right one remained sound and intact. During this time Mrs. Brewer worked for her own living, facing the situation with courage and never notifying her relatives who would have gladly lent her any assistance required. She secured employment in the Los Angeles telephone exchange, and provided her husband with a good home ready for the day when he emerged, cured, from the hospital.

It was a happy little reunion that took place five months ago. The husband and father was again in good health, if not so strong as before, the wife and mother was all hope and happiness, and the little one, brought back from the orphanage, was all glad to be again with his parents. The little party came to Fresno where their kinsman, Mr. Williams, secured employment for the breadwinner as a motor-man on the Sunnyside car line. They settled in the comfortable little home at 701 M street, on the corner of Mono street, where the grim tragedy of yesterday took place. All went well until one month ago, when Brewer returned home one afternoon complaining of feeling ill. That night he had a hemorrhage, and the deadly news dawned upon him that his other lung was affected, and death was near. Hoping against hope, he went to a doctor and got soothing medicine and soothing words of comfort, but he knew the worst. The days past and merged into the weeks, and hemorrhages came daily, increasing with the ravages of the disease until he had from six to eight every day. He was obliged to abandon work, and the plucky little wife resumed the burden of keeping the house going by her own efforts. She obtained employment, preferring to get along without the aid of her friends, who would have gladly lent a hand in the family troubles. After awhile, however, she was obliged to give up the hard work, as her own health was beginning to fail, and her husband needed her care at home.

Despondent With Illness.
Reduced from strength to feebleness with the certainty of death at no distant date, and unable to care for his wife and child, the invalid grew irascible and peevish, and at times hinted at self destruction in veiled terms. His love for his wife never abated, and it was on that account more than for his own sufferings that he worried. His brother Clyde visited him some few days ago, and wanted to take him to Ukiah for a change of air. Brewer, on the occasion of his visit, drew from his own finger a heavy gold ring and bade him to wear it, as he would not need it long. A day or two afterwards he said:

"Clyde, I wish you would take my gun out and put your name on it. When the coroner goes your name on it, you can explain all about it."

When the brothers parted, the deceased said, "Good-bye Clyde; I would like to go back with you, but I can't. Tell them all good-bye for me and ask them to remember me some times. Give them my love."

Three days ago Dr. Sample, who, with Dr. Long, had been attending to the sick man, told him gently that it would be the best thing for him to go to the hospital where he would get better care than was possible at home. The news was broken to him that he had not long to live, but his life would be prolonged by being treated in a place where all the necessities to medical science were handy. The doctor repeated the advice in more positive terms on Friday, and it was then decided to remove the sick man to the county hospital on the following morning.

Their Last Night.
All that night Brewer brooded over the separation, sleeping but little during the night. During the day he was even more than usually affectionate to his wife, and listened attentively and earnestly to the brave little woman as she spoke hopefully of their future and his recovery to health. It is probable that after spending a sleepless night, and worrying over the separation from the woman whom he loved so dearly, he decided that he had no further place in the world, and made up his mind that his wife would accompany him into the great beyond.

Attorney Williams, in speaking of the tragedy said that a more affectionate pair than Mr. and Mrs. Brewer could not be found. He was an exemplary young man, and she was a devoted woman, whose courage and fortitude sustained them through their year of trial and suffering.

Poverty Not Cause.
"There has been one thing said about the case," remarked Mr. Williams, "which is entirely wrong. A publication has said that poverty drove Brewer to his rash act. It was nothing of the sort. They lived in a comfortable home, and had all they wanted and needed in the world. If they wanted more it was theirs for the mere matter of asking. Both had well-to-do friends who sympathized deeply with them in their troubles, and if there was anything in the world that they required, or any attention that they cared to suggest, they would have got it."

The wife of Mr. Williams is prostrated with the shock, which follows close upon the heels of another family bereavement.
